FRANCE SIGNS TRUCE

By the Associated Press

France signed Hitler's dictated peace today, radio reports from Compiegne Forest said.

A joint broadcast received by the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System said the French delegation capitulated to the German terms at 6:50 p. m. (12:50 p. m. E. D. T.).

The broadcast said the armistice calling a halt to the fighting in France—would become effective six hours after France and Italy reach an armistice. The four-man French delegation was reported leaving immediately by air for Rome to negotiate with Premier Mussolini. Until that time and possibly longer terms of the armistice will be withheld.

FRENCH SIGN ARMISTICE; HOSTILITIES NOT YET OFF

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—A National Broadcasting Company report from Compiegne said today an armistice has been signed between Germany and France.

The broadcast was received here jointly by NBC and Columbia Broadcasting System. It said the armistice was signed at 6:50 p. m. (12:50 p. m. E. D. T.).

William L. Shirer, CBS correspondent, in a special broadcast from the Compiegne forest announced the signing. The armistice, the broadcast said, would not take effect until six hours after Italy had reached an armistice with France. The French plenipotentiaries who agreed to the armistice are leaving by plane for Rome, the announcer said.

Terms Are Kept Secret

The armistice was reported signed by Col.-Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command, for Germany, and Gen. Charles Huntzger for France, head of the French delegation.

William C. Kerker, the NBC reporter with the German forces, declared in the broadcast ohat the terms would not be revealed until the Italo-French armistice has been effected and may not be made public then for some time.

Kerker said that hostilities beoween France and the German-Italian armies would cease six hours after the Italo-French pact signing.

Envoys Rise to Honor Dead

He added that the French emissaries left at once for Rome in a plane flown by a German pilot. They will seek a French-Italian settlement as quickly as possible.

Kerker said Adolf Hitler was not at Compiegne for the signing.

Col.-Gen. Keitel spoke for the German delegation and Gen. Huntziger for the French.

Gen. Huntziger signed for the French in the two-minute ceremony, the report said. One of the French delegates wept.

Col.-Gen. Keitel addressed the French with a few words in tribute to the French dead. He requested all members of the French and German delegation to rise in respect for the soldier dead.

The Compiegne negotiations lasted 27 hours and 20 minutes. They were conducted in several sessions between the delegations and long telephone calls on a specially-opened line to the French government at Bordeaux.

The reported signing of the armistice took place in the same rail-

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The State Department acted today to rescue Americans stranded in Bordeaux, France; Lisbon, Portugal, and Madrid, Spain, after fleeing from the European war.

The department asked officials in the three cities to advise quickly how many persons wanted to return to the United States.

Whether ships would be dispatched to bring home the refugees would be determined, the department said, after the reports showed how many persons desired to avail themselves of such facilities.

French Envoys To Fly to Italy To Talk Terms

BORDEAUX, June 22 (AP)—France announced today her delegates would fly to Italy to discuss terms with the Italians before a general peace arrangement is reached with both her enemies. The trip was announced to follow signing of the German armistice.

A communique said that the cabinet deliberated most of the morning and into the afternoon on the text of the German armistice terms handed yesterday to the French plenipotentiaries in Compiegne.

The communique issued this afternoon by the French government follows:

"The cabinet deliberated during a large part of the morning and the beginning of the afternoon on texts handed over last night by Gen. von Keitel to the French plenipotentiaries.

"New cabinet meetings may be expected before a general arrangement can be reached.

"The negotiations must continue and first of all brought to a conclusion with the German delegation. Then the French plenipotentiaries will fly to Italy to meet the Italian delegates.

"Not until after a discussion with the latter country can the government bring a definite judgment on the whole question of double negotiation and take decisions in the best interests of the country."

Details of the German conditions were read to the Cabinet last night. The members then adjourned until this morning before starting deliberations.

Informed sources pointed out that the decision by France on the German peace terms probably would be announced in simultaneous communiques in the two nations, the Germans perhaps giving the terms and the French decision.

No pressure has been put on France for a quick reply, these sources said.

As to the fighting, the high command reported in today's morning communique that "local engagements" had occurred south of the Loire river.

"Local" Italian attacks were repelled on the Alpine front and German units were repulsed along the Rhone, the high command said.

Reports at the Swiss frontier said the French armies in the Alps and Jura Mountains were fighting on, even managing to drive back the Germans in the mountain fastnesses.

In Alexandria, where the British and French have concentrated a large fleet, French official sources expressed belief that the French naval units there, as well as the middle-east armies in Syria, would continu to fight beside the British no matter what decision the French government made.

5000 DIE AS NAZIS SINK SHIP

BERLIN, June 22 (INS)—Nearly 5000 Allied troops were drowned when German planes bombed and sand a 32,000-ton troop transport in Bordeaux harbor, the semi-official German news agency DNB reported today.

3 Bombs Hit Nazi Warship

LONDON, June 22 (INS)—The German battleship Scharnhorst has been heavily damaged by direct heavy bomb hits, it was announced officially today.

The Scharnhorst, one of the ships in the naval unit which sank the aircraft carrier Glorious in Norwegian waters a fortnight ago, sustained three direct hits from bombs dropped by British aircraft, the announcement said.

Two German fighters were shot down in flames and a German destroyer was hit by a torpedo, the official statement said, but did not reveal whether this was in the same raid which damaged the Scharnhorst.

A submarine spotted the big German warship after emerging from Trondheim harbor in Norway and obtained one hit with a torpedo.

Five Royal Air Force bombers were lost in attacking the Scharnhorst. British warships which later hunted the 26,000-ton vessel were unable to find her because of bad visibility.

Score Dead in Wake Of British, Nazi Raids

By the Associated Press

The war in the air quickened today from Britain's east coast to North Africa. Here is the scope of the aerial activity:

German planes swept over England shortly after midnight for the third time in four days, scattering bombs which killed three civilians and injured three others. Anti-aircraft fire and fighter planes prevented them from concentrating on any objective. The damage was not extensive. Britain's dead of the week, 21.

An air raid alarm was sounded over southeast England this afternoon, although no planes could be seen or heard.

GERMAN 'HOLLYWOOD' RAID

British planes countered for the Nazi raid with an attack on Germany. In the first important raid on the Berlin region since the war began, British bombers struck at Babelsberg, "German's Hollywood," wounding seven persons and damaging a garage and automobiles and wrecking an automatic telephone system.

Cologne and Essen also had been hit in the past three days. Casualties were 6 dead and 14 injured in

FRENCH WARSHIPS JOINING BRITISH

WASHINGTON, June 22—French warships in the Mediterranean and Atlantic are putting into British ports and naval bases or joining British flag squadrons to avoid surrender to the German Reich, it was reliably reported today.

Officials understood that this action, keeping the second ranking naval power of Europe in the war against the Reich, was being taken on the initiative of French officers.

They have refused, it was said, to give up their ships to Germany regardless of the terms that may be accepted by the Bordeaux government.

State Department officials said that while they have received no direct word from either the British or the French governments regarding the location of the French fleet, reports from various parts of the world told of French commanders seeking British protection.

This news was highly welcomed by American officials who had feared that German sea power might be greatly increased by acquisition of the French navy, strengthening its striking power in the western world.

UNDER BRITISH CONTROL

At the beginning of the war, it was recalled, the French fleet was placed under the British naval high command, just as the British army was placed under the direction of the French general staff.

This fact doubtless has made it easier for the British to make sure that none of France's vessels fall into German hands.

In a broadcast picked up in New York by the Columbia Broadcasting System, the official British radio reported today that six French tankers at Istanbul have been transferred to British ownership and hoist the British flag.

SPARE PARTS PROBLEM

Even as informed persons reported that the government had been advised of British acquisition of the French warships, naval engineers exposed the opinion that most of the vessels would have only a short-term or reserve value to Great Britain.

3-SENTENCE NEWS STORY TELLS PARIS OF ARMISTICE

PARIS (BY SPECIAL PLANE TO BERLIN), June 21 (Delayed) (AP)—Paris, which had greeted its victorious 1918 armistice with an explosion of joy, received the news of the 1940 armistice discussions today in numb silence.

The first report of the armistice talks was carried at 4 p. m. by the newspaper Le Matin. It was a three-sentence story of "the painful ceremony for France" in Compiegne forest.

A German army radio car parked just off the Place de l'Opera broadcast the news soon afterward while sound trucks toured the boulevards blaring martial music.

A German victory parade is expected Sunday.

TRAWLER SEIZES BIG ITALIAN SUB

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—The Admiralty announced tonight that a large Italian submarine had surrendered to the British trawler Moonstone.

The capture was made in the Gulf of Aden, the announcement said, after the Moonstone attacked the submarine with depth charges.

A communique said:

"A large Italian submarine has surrendered to one of His Majesty's trawlers.

"H. M. trawler Moonstone was on patrol in the Gulf of Aden when the periscope of a submerged submarine was sighted. The trawler at once attacked with depth charges.

"These brought the submarine to the surface. The submarine engaged the trawler with her entire armament, consisting of torpedos, two 3.9-inch guns, and smaller guns.

"The trawler replied with her 4-inch gun and a Lewis (machine) gun and scored hits on the submarine with 4-inch shells. The submarine subsequently surrendered and was brought into Aden as a prize."

French Rout Rhone Thrust

CHANCY, Swiss-France Frontier, June 22 (AP)—French sources reported today the French defenders of L'Ecluse fort, near Bellegarde, not only repulsed an attack on the mountain citadel early this afternoon, but drove the Germans out of the town of Bellegarde, five miles away.

The guns of the big fort defending the Rhone river gorges and the junction of the lower Jura with the Alpine foothills below the Italian front were silent in mid-afternoon for the first time since early morning.

Refugees said the French regained possession of the Bellegarde.

The French dynamited the railroad south of Bellegarde to prevent an attack north along the Rhone.

Powerful German motorized forces, backed by artilery and supported by bombers, were reported to have captured Bellegarde hours earlier, and were attacking Fort L'Ecluse—called the "Gibraltar of the Rhone."

L'Ecluse fort is carved out of rock beside the winding highway between the Swiss frontier and the town of Bellegarde. It dominates the Rhone gorges and rises 1000 feet above sea level.

10,000 Vets Parade; Compulsory Military Training Is Approved

By JAMES F. McENANEY

As more than 100,000 persons lined the streets of Lynn for the 20th annual encampment parade of the Massachusetts Veterans of Foreign Wars, the ladies' auxiliary groups of the organization concluded their convention session today with a resolution that American soldiers be kept off foreign soil unless our liberties were threatened.

At the same time, the women heartily offered their sons, and even daughters, for service in an army that would defend American soil, but declared they would not spare one to fight abroad.

Meanwhile, the veterans wound up their business sessions in a resolution condemning the recent action of Mayor George ". Ashe of Lowell, who, through the state civil service commission, brought about a ruling in Lowell that laborers over 40 years of age could not obtain a job in the city works department.

BACK BEANO GAMES

State Comdr. Thomas J. Quinn of the American Legion, a guest of the V. F. W., offered the support of the Legion in backing the resolution against the Ashe action.

Another resolution—that incoming V. F. W. department leaders ask public officials to allow beano games conducted by V. F. W. posts —was presented by the John Fallon Post of Roslindale. The resolution stated that the beano games had enabled the V. F. W. to do considerable charity work .

The veterans had previously passed a resolution calling for universal compulsory military training, which would apply to both military and civilian life. This resolution, together with approval of President Roosevelt's defense program, was backed by the women's auxiliary.

With the business sessions over, at least 10,000 veterans and members of civic and fraternal organizations were scheduled to participate in the five-hour processsion through Lynn streets.

Led by Past State Commander Walter G. Howard of Lynn, as marshal, the parade was reviewed at City Hall by Mayor Albert Cole. The line of march was directed through Market, Broad and Spring sts. in Central sq., returning along Central ave. to City Hall.

Memorial services will be held tomorrow noon, and the election of officers will follow in Odd Fellows Hall. Edward A. O'Brien, state senior vice commander, is unopposed as state commander.

Trawlers Off to Sea After 14-Week Strike

Beam trawlers of the Boston fleet left Fish Pier for the fishing grounds today for the first time in 14 weeks, following the signing of an agreement that put 53 ships and 2500 men back to work.

The strike which started last March ended last night when employers and officials of the Atlantic Fishermen's Union agreed to minor changes in the 1939 contract, the new contract to hold until March 15, 1942.

The entire fishing fleet will be back at work by the end of next week, after ice and food have been stowed, and the scattered crews have been reassembled.

Over 800 fishermen will be directly affected by the agreement, and workers in associate industries will also be affected.

Stocks Seek Lower Levels

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Selective stocks made occasional passes at a rally in today's market but many issues dozed at moderately lower levels as traders still conserved buying power pending clarification of the French decision on Germany's armistice terms.

A few favorites got up a point or so, but fractional declines were widely spread at the close.

Financial quarters shook off some of the gloom resulting from the French collapse and hope appeared to have revived on indications the British may have taken over a major portion of the loser's fleet.

Bonds were a trifle uneven and commodities steady. "Free" sterling pushed up briskly in terms of the dollar.

Briton Slays Wife, Self in French Villa

BORDEAUX, June 22 (AP)—Le Petit Parisien reported today from D'Antibes that Sir Arthur George Ahendry, 73, a native of London, and his wife, the former Jeanne Charcot, sister of the late French explorer, were found shot to death in their villa. Roosevelt Gets Huge Defense Bill

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—A $1,777,000,000 emergency defense appropriation bill won final Congressional approval today.

The Senate sent the measure to the White House after agreeing to a conference report previously adopted by the House.

The bill carried funds for 3000 new army planes, 3000 Rolls Royce motors to be built by the Ford Motor Company, and for unspecified numbers of tanks, guns, ammunition and supplies.

68 NEW SHIPS

Funds also were included to start work on 68 new fighting ships for the navy and to permit the Federal Bureau of Investigation to expand its force by 500 agents to combat spies and sabateurs.

The House approved today a compromise draft of the $1,000,000,000 defense tax bill and sent it to the Senate for final legislative action.

The Tax compromise, worked out last night by a Senate-House conference committee, omitted Senate provisions for an excess profits tax and for levies which would become effective upon a declaration of war.

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP) —The Senate approved and sent to the White House today a compromise $1,000,000,000 tax bill carrying a clause increasing the national debt limit by $4,000,000,000 to $49,000,000,000.

In general, the defense tax bill increases both incomeand excise taxes and adds more than 2,000,000 per sons to the lists of federal contributors.

The Senate, meanwhile, wound up legislativeaction on a $1,157,711,357 relief appropriation bill, including $50,000,000 for surplus crop disposal, and sent it to the White House.

The Senate passed speedily a deficiency appropriation measure estimated to contain more than $170,000,000 in cash and contract authorizations, including $20,200,000 for training workers for national defense industries.

FUNDS FOR LABOR DEPT.

A few minutes after the deficiency bill was cleared away the Senate completed congressional action on a compromise measure providing funds for the Labor Department and Federal Security Agency, totaling $1,023,282,690. The appropriation now goes to the White House.

Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky won Senate approval of an addition tothe deficiency bill making any of the funds which were carried in the $1,000,000,000 relief bill available for training defense workers.

Another Senate provision would add $75,000,000 in contract authorizations for the maritime commission for building new vessels.

WAR POLICY FIGHT THREATENS SPLIT AT G.O.P. PARLEY

By GRIFFING BANCROFT, JR.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, June 22—The committee seeking to draft a foreign policy plank for the Republican Party broke up today without reaching agreement.

Former Sen. George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, an advocate of an "aid to the Allies" stand, and Dr. Glean Frank, head of the party's program committee and a mild isolationist, both submitted proposals but neither was accepted, it was learned.

Committeemen declined to comment publicly when they adjourned until this evening after a two-hour secret session, but privately it was feared the G. O. P. may become seriously deadlocked on this issue.

With most party leaders agreeing the foreign policy plank will be the most important in the platform, a bitter fight on the floor of the convention appeared increasingly more likely.

An apparently ever-growing bloc, determined to go before the electorate on a strong anti-war issue, already has served notice that if there is any "straddling" on the question they will carry their fight to the entire convention after it meets Monday.

"It will be a straightforward non-involvement, anti-war declaration, or somebody's going to the floor with a minority report," Orville Bullington of Texas, leading peace-party advocate on the sub-committee, declared.

TELEGRAMS POUR IN

Bullington said the committee had received "a stack of telegrams two feet high and 90 per cent of them called for an anti-war stand."

Demands for an outright non-involvement plank, with no mention of aid to the warring democracies, has swept through G. O. P. circles here since President Roosevelt appointed two interventionist Republicans—Col. Frank Knox and Henry Stimpson—to his Cabinet.

Former Sen. Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, one-time ambassador to France and one of the leading Allied sympathizers on the committee, was known to be drafting a proposed foreign plank for submission to his colleagues.

It was indicated, however, that Edge's proposals may have to be strengthened considerably to meet approval of those who feel the G. O. P.'s best chance lies in branding the Democrats the "war party" and fighting it out on that line in November.

Work on the ticklish foreign plank overshadowed other platform work, but progress was reported today from committees dealing with a list of domestic issues.

DODGE LABOR ISSUE

The labor committee, it was learned, decided not to take a stand directly on such controversial issues as the CIO-AFL fight or the National Labor Relations Act, but to draft a simple statement guaranteeing the American worker security and collective bargaining rights.

The tariff committee was understood to have agreed to recommend that reciprocal trade agreements be made subject to approval of one or both houses of Congress.

The finance committee, meanwhile, considered demands of a group of Republicans from the House ways and means committee for a plank setting out plans to bring the government's fiscal affairs into eventual balance.

Republican farm experts on the agricultural committee were drafting the important plank on which they hope to capture the Mid-West vote. This policy, it was understood, will urge temporary continuance of farm subsidies until agriculture can be placed on a self-sustaining basis.

HOTELS JAMMED

High chieftains of the Republican party were as uncertain today over the identity of their 1940 presidential nominee as the milling crowds of delegates and sympathizers who jammed a score of hotels.

On the week-end eve of their convention, some leaders asserted that there is a slow trend toward Ohio Sen. Robert A. Taft. The headquarters of Thomas E. Dewey countered with a claim that the New York racket-buster will have 100 votes on the first ballot, which would be enough to make him the convention's favorite and likely choice.

Strong organizations meanwhile harangued hotel crowds in favor of the "dark horses," Wendell Willkie, New York utility executive, and Governor Arthur H. James, of Pennsylvania. Lesser followings were urging delegates to note the availabilities of Sen. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, New York Publisher Frank E. Gannett, Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan and Hanford MacNider, of Iowa.

"This convention is wide open. It is a delegates' convention at last."

WILLKIE GAINING

With the convention only 48 hours away, the race for the presidential nomination was wide open but with Wendell Willkie moving in fast on the leading candidates Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, and New York Dist. Atty. Thomas E. Dewey.

A big drive for Willkie was opened as the New York utility magnate appeared in the convention city.

New York City's two top contenders for the nomination—Dist. Atty. Dewey and Willkie—arrived this afternoon.

Questioned by reporters on how many votes he'd have on the first ballot, Dewey laughed:

"Sorry, I'm no prophet."

Willkie's only comment:

"I feel fine."

NEAR FIGHT IN LOBBY

A Pennsylvania delegate and Col. Carl L. Estes, Texas publisher and a supporter of Gov. Arthur H. James for the nomination, engaged in a hotel lobby argument today that nearly ended in fisticuffs.

A sweeping rule denying any delegate representation in future Republican conventions to congressional districts that do not poll at least 1000 votes for the party ticket was adopted by the national committee.

The position carries a $10,000 annual salary. Rumors have persisted in Washington recently that in addition to Forrestal the next man to join the so-called group of "men with a passion for anonymity, will be Daniel Tobin president of the American Federation of Labor's Teamsters' Union.

20 Republics Agree to Cartel

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Secretary Hull announced today that all of the 20 other American republics had replied favorably in principle to the United States' proposal for a special Pan-American conference on problems growing out of the European war.

The Secretary of State said that details had yet to be worked out but that the conference would be conducted as early as practicable.

United States government officials, Hull declared, were in the final stage of preparing an inter-American trade agreement proposal designed to protect the export business of this continent. He added, however, that this would not necessarily come before the Pan-American meeting.

5 G.O.P. WIVES PONDER WHITE HOUSE CHANGES

By JANE COCHRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 22 (INS)—At least five women speculated today as to whether they might change the White House's blue room to shades of turquoise.

They speculated, too, as to whose husband—theirs?—would be the bearer of the Republican party's presidential standard or only "among those mentioned . . ."

Three and possibly four of the wives of prominently-mentioned Republican possibilities will go to Philadelphia to find out, but the fifth, Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey, will stay home with the children.

Mrs. Robert A. Taft and Mrs. Frank Gannett, both of whom have taken active parts in pre-convention campaigns, will attend convention sessions, as will Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg.

MRS. DEWEY TO STAY HOME

Mrs. Wendell L. Willkie, slightly dazed by the suddenness of her husband's boom, wants to go "if I can sit quietly behind a post."

Mrs. Dewey will remain at their country home in Pawling, N. Y., but "probably will go to convention if my husband is nominated."

She's made several trips with her husband and has "enjoyed the campaign thoroughly," but has never deviated from her policy of leaving politics strictly to her husband.

"I like meeting people and during the campaign had a wonderful opportunity to meet thousands," she said. "It was particularly enjoyable because everyone was so nice and cordial."

Mrs. Vandenberg is interested in politics, but she and the Senator from Michigan are agreed that actively advancing his political fortunes by speaking or campaign activities on her part is one of the things Mrs. Vandenberg will not do.

MRS. GANNETT'S 'ENJOYMENT'

The campaign to Mrs. Gannett, wife of the Rochester publisher, has been "an eyeopener on a new and totally different field—politics." She's liked being on "the inside looking out" and enjoyed the speeches she's made in favor of her husband.

Mrs. Taft has made extensive speaking tours. A charming, unaffected, quick-witted and gifted speaker, she enjoys stumping for her husband.

"It has been hectic, though, and strenuous," she said. "But I'm looking forward to convention."

U. S. Security Woodring Plea

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Former Secretary Woodring told the army in a farewell message today that progress in building up defenses should "continue with regard first and above all to the security of our own country."

Woodring's message was published in the Army and Navy Journal after spirited debate yesterday in the Senate, when administration critics asserted that he was "dismissed" from President Roosevelt's Cabinet because he opposed policies which he considered would lead toward intervention in the European war.

Vets Demand Recall Of Envoy Bullitt

U. S. Senators Walsh and Lodge today received a demand by the Allied American War Veterans Council of South Boston for the recall of William C. Bullitt, U. S. ambassador to France.

200,000 CAPTURED BY GERMAN ARMY

BERLIN, June 22 (AP)—The harbor towns of Lorient and St. Malo in French Brittany have been taken, the German high command announced today, and small French units are still putting up a fight in the Maginot Line in Lorraine.

Capture of more than 200,000 prisoners in the past few days, including an entire brigade of Spahis (Algerian cavalrymen) and a battle between a German warship and British planes, in which 13 aircraft were shot down, were reported.

The commander of French northern naval forces, "other admirals," one commanding general and several division commanders, the high command said, also have fallen into the net of the German advance.

765 PLANES LOST

In all, the high command's daily communique said, 765 planes were destroyed, some of them shot down, others made useless while on the ground, during the period June 4-20. It declared 260 Allied planes were seized at captured airports.

Successful shipping attacks by submarines were reported. One submarine was said to have destroyed 42,686 tons of shipping; another "succeeded in torpedoing the English troop transport Etrick of approximately 1000 tons," and a third "successfully attacked a big British convoy."

Four French submarines in a shipyard at German-held Le Havre have been taken over by the German navy, the German radio announced.

A merchant ship of 8000 tons was sunk and another damaged in the Gironde and Loire estuaries.

FOOD SUPPLY PROBLEM

The Berlin radio reported Paris has resumed telephone service and is preparing to reopen schools of the Seine department.

The main anxiety of both Franch and German authorities is the food supply for the 2,000,000 persons who remained in the city.

Score of Dead In Air Raids

midtown Cologne and 2 dead and 2 wounded in the suburbs, and 9 dead at Essen.

A Zurich, Switzerland, International News Service report from the Italian frontier claimed 70 British warplanes successfully bombed industrial plants at Lecco and Balleda and that Allied bombers also destroyed gasoline dumps at Venice. Bombs were also dropped by British fliers on Marseilles and on other towns on the French Riviera, the Toulouse radio reported today.—Editor's note.

Italian raiders bombed Jibuti several times this morning. There were no casualties, and no damage was reported but anti-aircraft batteries were in action.

SAY INFIRMARY BOMBED

British planes, based at Cairo, bombarded Tobruk, Italian Libya, yesterday and reported they saw smoke billowing from a large warship in the harbor, indicating a direct hit.

One Italian fighter was shot down, British bombs were also dropped on El Adem and El Gubbia, Italian bases in Libya.

Italians said a Tobruk target was a naval infirmary, "with several killed and wounded."

Anti-aircraft guns of the British and French fleets helped drive back a squadron of Italian bombers which unsuccessfully attacked Alexandria, Allied naval base, today.

The raid—apparently sprung from Italy's Dodecanese islands across the Mediterranean—flew in three waves and was beaten back by the co-operative action of both fleets. Two bombers were reported hit.

No warship was hit, and most of the bombs fell into the sea. The attack led to predictions that Egypt might quickly declare war on Italy.

Two persons were killed and 23—including two Italians—were injured in the raid.

The Italians claimed their planes razed the Marsa Matruh headquarters of the British high command in Egypt, and bombed the bases of Bizerte and Marseille, hitting a cruiser at Bizerte and damaging an arsenal and firing a few oil tanks.

Italy Claims 3 Steamers Are Sunk

ROME, June 22 (AP)—Italian military headquarters announced today a widespread program of air and naval attacks in the Mediterranean area during which three "enemy steamers" had been sunk by submarines and Fre[illegible] bases at Bizerte, Tunisia and Marseille on the French coast had been bombarded heavily.

Italian bombing planes razed the Marsa Matruh headquarters of the British high command in Egypt, the communique asserted.

In addition to the three ships sunk by torpedoes, direct bomb hits were made on two cruisers, the Italians said—one east of the Balearic Islands and the other at Bizerte.

British Fliers Sink 2 German Vessels

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—Two German vessels were sunk by British planes in a raid yesterday on Willemsoord, a German-occupied harbor in Holland, the air ministry announced today.

The air ministry said that in "less than a minute" five tons of bombs were dropped, the two ships were sunk, another was badly damaged, an oil storage depot was set on fire and naval storehouses were "blown to rubble."

"I was following the leader's aircraft," said one pilot. "He went down below 500 feet and I saw his bombs drop off. I watched them fall directly on the larger of the two ships . . . The bombs struck almost exactly amidships."

Estonians Seize Castle in Revolt

LONDON, June 22 (INS)—Armed Estonian workers in a sudden uprising occupied the caste at Tallinn which has been the seat of the Estonian government, the London Daily Mirror reported today.

The paper said the workers hoisted the red flag over the capital.

Large numbers of additional Soviet troops recently marched into Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. It was announced this action was taken to insure implementation of Russia's non-aggression pacts with the three Baltic states.—Editor's note.

Later an authoritative Soviet spokesman in London told International News Service that Russia was compelled to send the troops into the Baltic countries because of discovery of a Nazi-inspired, Nazi-financed plot against Russia.

Mrs. Myron Taylor Flies to Ill Husband

ROME, June 22 (AP)—Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's representative to the Holy See, who has been seriously ill in Florence, is reported greatly improved.

Physicians attending Taylor said he now was virtually free of fever. Mrs. Taylor is expected to arrive at Florence by plane today. She is believed accompanied by an American surgeon.

Britain to Seize Ireland, Say Nazis

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—The German radio says Great Britain is planning military occupation of Ireland but that "the actual invasion has been postponed to avoid arousing anti-British feeling among Irish citizens in the United States.

SOLDIERS AID REFUGEES—Typical scene on the refugee-crowded French roads is this . . . as soldiers aid two elderly women in their flight to safety. Jamming of roads by thousands of refugees is said to have had much to do with the French defeat because it hampered movement of troops and supplies.

France's Fall Laid To Failure of Line

France gave up the fight after its supposedly impregnable Maginot line had been virtually abandoned in the face of an encirclement by the Germans.

The previous fall of Paris, the invasion of all north France, the exhauston of French troops, and the necessity of meeting the Italian threat in the south combined to make the situation unbearable.

The capitulation was indicated from the moment of the fall of Premier Paul Reynaud's government last Sunday and the succession by 84-year-old Marshal Petain.

Reynaud was reported to have held out until the end against capitulation.

HERO'S HARD TASK

Ironically it fell to one of the greatest military heroes of French history to move for peace.

Petain was the World War "hero of Verdun."

In his first message to the world on the most momentous decision of the present war, Marshal Petain said:

"It is with a heavy heart that I announce we have ceased hostilities."

The decision was made with 150 German divisions of more than 2,000,000 soldiers on French soil and with the Swastika flying over Paris. It was made too with the knowledge that help from the United States in war materials would not be forthcoming soon enough and in sufficient quantity.

FOR ACTIVE WAR

The elevation of Petain Sunday to succeed Reynaud was interpreted on the continent as a conventional move to turn the government over the military preparatory to capitulation. The Germans used the same device during the World War climax.

The Reynaud government was formed March 21.

Until the end Reynaud remained an advocate of active war and fight-to-the-end tactics.

ONLY 39 DAYS!

But against German tanks, motorcycle troops, dive bombers and armored trucks, the Poilus were ill-equipped except in courage.

The conquest of France required 39 days.

Although the war is many months old there was little action in France until May 10, when Germany invaded Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg. On May 16 the battle of the Meuse began and fighting was bitter between Namur and Sedan.

By May 21 the Germans had reached Arras and Amiens and were threatening to dominate in northern France. Two days later the Allied armies of the north were encircled and the Germans seized Abbeville.

ALLIES GREAT RESCUE

The Belgians under King Leopold capitulated May 8.

By June 4 the Allies had succeeded in rescuing 335,000 men from a northern trap via Dunkirk and the English Channel.

Five days later the Germans reached Rouen and on June 11 they were at the Seine. On the 12th the Germans claimed Rheims and on the 14th they entred Paris.

The French withdrew their military and declared Paris an "open city" to save it from destruction.

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—Official British circles today received, without comment reports of the signing of the Frnech armistice with Germany.

These circles added nothing would be said in any event until the terms were made known.

Bankhead Says F. D. Won't Send U. S. Army Abroad

WASHINGTON, June 22 (INS)—Speaker Bankhead of the House today told the Junior Chamber of Commerce, in convention in Washington, that "neither the Administration nor Congress has any desire to send an expeditionary force overseas."

President Roosevelt's national defense program is "non-partisan, backed in Congress by Republicans and Democrats alike," he said. He praised the convention for going on record in support of a compulsory military training program for American youth."

Leopold's Children Arrive in Portugal

LISBON, June 22 (AP)—The three children of King Leopold III of the Belgians arrived last evening at Guarda, Portugal, where they spent the night under the care of Paul Van Zeeland, former Prime Minister of Belgium. The party was expected to continue today to Coimbra.

The Belgian royal children—Princess Josephine Charlotte, 12; Prince Baudoin, 9, and Prince Albert, 6—have been in France since shortly after the German invasion of their country May 10.

Wood-Burning Truck Planned For Germany

BERLIN, June 22 (AP)—German authorities, anticipating a shortage of motor fuel when the European war is ended, are making plans to equip all Diesel-motored trucks in the Reich to burn wood instead of oil.

Germany, it was explained officially, will have a considerably enlarged demand for motor-powered vehicles, especially in agriculture, once peace is restored.

A company has been organized under the supervision of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering—master of the Reich's economic setup—to provide and distribute wood-burning equipment. One of its tasks will be to establish and stock wood "filing stations."

It was explained all kinds of wood, including scraps, would be utilized. The speed and power of motors operated by gas generated from burning wood was said to compare favorably with those driven by gasoline or oil.

SENATE PROBERS SUMMON KNOX TO GIVE WAR VIEWS

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The Senate Naval Affairs Committee voted unanimously today to summon Col. Frank Knox, President Roosevelt's new navy secretary-designate, to learn his views on the question of keeping the United States out of war.

Chairman Walsh (D.) of Massachusetts said Knox would be asked to testify before the committee in a public hearing, probably July 1. Walsh said the committee determined, without dissent to postpone action until after Republican members had returned from their national convention opening in Philadelphia Monday.

TELEGRAMS POUR IN

All committee members have been receiving telegrams both protesting and commending the appointment of Knox and of Henry L. Stimson, also a Republican, as Secretary of War, Walsh said.

The military committee decided yesterday to hold hearings on the naming of Stimson to be Secretary of War.

Stimpson also will be called to testify.

Walsh said protests were based largely on what the writers of them believed to be the attitude of Knox and Stimson toward the European war. Both have been advocated of substantial American aid to the Allies.

The decision to call Knox was reached at a committee meeting attended by eight Democrats and three Republicans. Besides Walsh, the Democrats present were Senators Ellender of Louisiana, Gerry of Rhode Island, Gillette of Iowa, Tydings of Maryland, Smith of South Carolina, Byrd of Virginia and Holt of West Virginia. Republicans present were Senators Barbour of New Jersey, Johnson of California and Hale of Maine.

GARNER, FARLEY PROTEST

The Stimson and Knox appointments were discussed by Vice-President Garner and Postmaster-General Farley, friends said, in a long conference yesterday. Both men expressed disapproval of the President's action, it was reported, Garner with considerable vehemence.

The combination of foreign affairs and the Stimson-Knox nominations plunged the Senate into a stormy debate marked by a demand that Mr. Roosevelt resign lest his policies bring "disaster." The House, too, heard wordy exchanges, among them inquiries whether Harry Woodring, the resigned Secretary of War, had been "dismissed."

The furore prompted President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., to remark that there were some people who think in terms of patriotic motives and some who think with partisan motives.

The demand for President Roosevelt's resignation came from Sen. Nye (R.), North Dakota, who told the Senate that it "seemed certain" the President had promised military assistance to France.

When the "terrible moment" to honor that pledge arrived, he asserted, the Chief Executive was "unable to deliver."

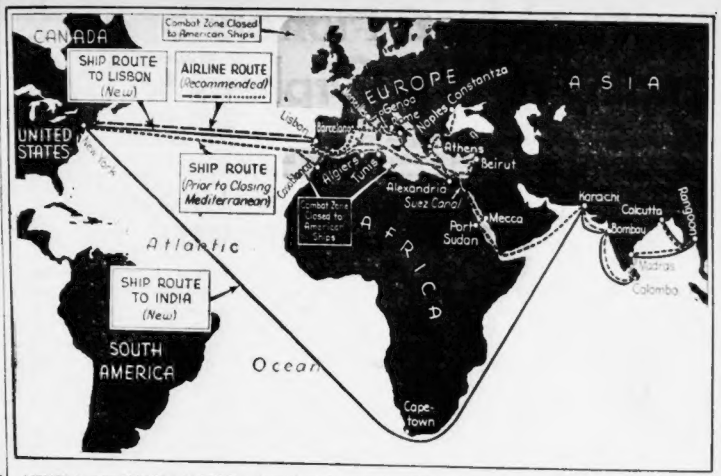
Challenging Nye, Senator Minton (D.) of Indiana said the Republican was piling up insinuations and accusing the United States of leading France and England into the war.

"Of course America didn't make any such promises as the senator says," Minton declared.

F. D. Flooded With Messages On Knox, Stimson

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 22 (INS)—President Roosevelt's nomination of Col. Frank Knox and Henry L. Stimson to head the Navy and War Departments has resulted in a flood of several hundred telegrams, the temporary executive offices announced today.

Of the messages, it was said, only one was unfavorable to the appointments.



NEUTRALITY ZONE MAPPED—President Roosevelt widens the war's neutrality zone and bars American ships from the Mediterranean and Gulf of Aden. England Next, Cry Of Nazis

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

IN THE FOREST OF COMPIEGNE, France, June 22—France signed an armistice today with Nazi Germany and Italy, accepting the terms of the axis powers and paving the way for peace on the continent, this correspondent was reliably informed late this afternoon.

The continental peace will leave Hitler and Mussolini free to carry out a smashing onslaught against Great Britain "compelling early conclusion of the war," a spokesman said.

"HONORABLE," SAYS NAZIS

The peace to be enacted by Germany will be an "honorable peace," Nazi officials declared.

There will be determined efforts to avoid sowing the "seeds of hatred" or otherwise duplicating the mistakes of the Versailles treaty.

German spokesmen, however, made no secret of the fact that for a loser, a lost war means material sacrifices.

During the last 24 hours, a French tendency to relax and accept military defeat has demonstrated itself, German officials said, "particularly after Hitler's considerate treatment of the French delegation."

Paris itself has taken a new lease of life, it said. The public, informed of developments by cruising loud speakers, seems more relieved than sad that the carnage is coming to an end. Time and again soldiers and officers are stopped in the streets and asked whether signing of the armistice will mean permanent peace.

The cafes of Paris have opened again and are thronged as always. The Cafe de la Paix has resumed business again.

German observers in Paris reported no public expressions whatever against cessation of hostilities or against the decision of Premier Petain to ask for an armistice. Nazi officials said, however, a tide of anti-British sentiment was rising, with Britain being blamed for the fiasco in France.

There also are signs of some resentment against the United States on the ground that America "failed to keep her promises."

Formalities of the French capitulation were still in progress this afternoon. The advance of the German armies toward the south of France continued as well.

But everything indicates that early next week Germany and Italy will meet France—and probably Belgium and Holland as well—around a green-baize table.

AMERICANS HELP FRENCH

If this conference transpires, it is expected to be held in some "popular" German town. Although the exact site has not been officially announced, reports in the past said that Hitler has chosen Muenster, scene of the treaty of Westphalia.

German sources said the world should not be surprised if in the coming months Hitler makes friends with France, at least as collaborator in the reconstruction and reshaping of the European continent.

Meanwhile, the American Red Cross joined hands with the French Relief Society in feeding and accommodating the homeless in France. Gertrude Hamilton of St. Louis turned the American hospital transport service over to the same cause.

JAPS SET TO MOVE ON BRITISH IN ORIENT

TOKYO, June 22—Japan plans to deal herself a "stronger hand" regarding British and French possessions in the southern Orient—perhaps even to take direct action against them—while the European democracies are too busy to oppose her, sources close to the government indicated today.

These circles said Japan's foreign policy had been revised, in view of the recent turn of the war in Europe, into a three-point program designed to give her:

1—Closer relations with Germany and Italy.

2—A stronger position in the Southern Orient (where principal allied holdings are the British crown colony of Hongkong and French Indo-China.)

3—A negative attitude regarding any American efforts toward rapprochement.

In Hongkong re-occupation by Japanese troops of South China areas just across the border of this British crown colony today caused uneasiness in many quarters, despite a communique from British military authorities that "there is no cause for alarm."

Some quarters linked the move with reports that Japan might be planning an invasion of French Indo-China, which Chinese circles declared inevitably would be coupled with a Japanese attempt to seize Hongkong also—Editor's note.

The Japanese this week demanded that the French prevent shipment of war supplies to China by the Yunnan railway through Indo-China. The French agreed to stationing of Japanese inspectors along the railway to halt such supplies.

It is understood that Japan shortly will send Britain a demand that she stop arms traffic to China by way of Burma.

Stories of Nazi Horrors Speeds Sending of War Orphans to U.S.

As the hour of threatened invasion approaches, England is making frantic preparations to remove children to America. Roland Robinson, Conservative member of the British Parliament, yesterday informed the House Foregin Affairs Committee in Washington that his country is "desperately anxious" to have endangered boys and girls go to families in the United States.

"The British people have been deeply touched by many offers from Americans to take children," he said.

English sentiment, first opposed to removal of children, has changed, he explained. One reason for the change is that soldiers, returning from Belgium, told horrible stories of the fate of children fleeing before the German army.

Meanwhile, throughout New England, hundreds are writing to the Editor of the American and asking that the little refugees be given to them at the earliest possible moment.

Every letter is forwarded to this newspaper's war orphans' department in Washington and thence to the proper authorities.

The purpose is to try to obtain a child for each New England family that applies for one.

Typical letters in today's mail say:

NASHUA, N. H.—"We have been married six years and have no children. We would love to take two war orphans, preferably a boy and girl who are brother and sister. As we are of French parentage, we would like children from France.

"We are in a position to give two children a Catholic home and all the things in life an American child could hope for."

DORCHESTER — "We have been married 12 years and have no children, so we would like nothing better than to adopt one or two war orphans. Our preference would be girls about eight or nine years of age."

BRIGHTON—"It is a wonderful movement you have started in this country. The children should be saved before England is invaded. Not only the British children, but the thousands of Dutch, French, Belgian and Norwegian children who have found refuge in England. Not to speak of the many Polish, Lithuanian and Czech youngsters.

"My wife and I will take three children. The nationality is not important. One deserves to be rescued as much as the other."

LANCASTER—"I wish I could afford to fill my home full of those unfortunate children. If somebody or the government would help provide, I would take in any number.

"I have cared for 196 babies while raising my own three and have had wonderful success, never lost one.

"Without assistance, I should be glad to take two children. My daughter and I could provide for them adequately."

SPRINGFIELD— "I think the work you are doing in finding homes for those poor little war orphans is just wonderful. They will later thank you for making them real Americans and saving them from further war disasters. I would like a very young baby girl, because I have just lost a baby of my own and I thought the world would come to an end. Then I heard of these little orphans, and I know that if I could have a little baby girl she would have a good home and proper food and clothing."

LOWELL—"We have been married 11 years and have no children. My husband and I would love to adopt a war orphan, preferably a French boy between the ages of 6 and 7, who has lost both parents. We are in a position to give the child a good home and raise him properly. I pray that we shall be among the first to receive a dear little French boy."

LEXINGTON—"I will be only too willing to take two little ones from France or Britain for the duration of the war. I am single, but can afford to provide well for them. They can stay with me at my North Shore place during the summer. In the fall I shall see that they go to a good private boarding school."

REFUGEE — Waiting to embark for Britain in mass evacuation of French civilians, this little girl takes a last look at her war-broken country.

2000 IN U. S. WILLING TO SHELTER REFUGEES

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Two thousand persons throughout the United States have indicated willingness to shelter refugee children from Europe in their own homes, a newly formed committee announced today.

Mrs. Marion Saunders, member of the United States committee for care of European children, said several individuals had offered use of large estates as refugee camps. The committee has queried the State Department to determine how many children wil be allowed to enter the country, and to obtain the department's aid in bringing them here.

Mrs. Saunders said the committee would lend financial aid to Canadian agencies now preparing to receive the first group of children, expected to leave England within two weeks.

Canada to Take 10,000

OTTAWA, Ont., June 22 (AP)—Sen. Cairine Wilson said today it was conservatively estimated that suitable homes for 10,000 British children seeking haven from the European war were available in Canada.

The senator, chairman of the national committee on refugees, reported applications from all parts of the dominion.

English residents generally offer to take United Kingdom children, while French-Canadians mostly apply for children of either France or Belgium.

U. S. Rushes Plane Orders

NEW YORK, June 22 (INS)—Increased delivery of American airplanes and aircraft engines was reported today by the Anglo-French purchasing board. Orders for more than 10,000 fighting planes and 20,000 engines already have been placed, a spokesman for the board said and plane deliveries are nearing the 2500 mark.

The spokesman said that disposition of the warplanes and other war materials ordered for the French government had not been decided but the French representative of the board noted in agreement when the spokesman said establishment of a French "in absentia government" at an unrevealed location was "not at all an unlikely happening."

Meanwhile the first direct delivery of fighting planes, since the start of the war, was accomplished by the flight of 55 Northrop A-17-A attack bombers from Mitchell Field, L. I., to Halifax, N. S. The planes were army ships turned back to the builders and resolt to the British government.

F. D. Asked to Air Allied Pact

PORTLAND, Ore., June 22 (INS)—Demands that Pres. S. attorney general and ex-judge of the U. S. District Court of the Virgin Islands.

Charges made by Levitt, a student of international agreements, were made public in a message sent to the White House.

3-DIMENSIONAL PICTURES IN NEW CAMERA MAGIC

Defying a fundamental law of physics, polaroid has made two things occupy the same space at the same time and presto, created three dimension pictures.

Latest magic of Edwin H. Land, who makes light do tricks by polarizing it, was described in the June issue of the Journal of the Optical Society of America, published today.

He has streamlined grandmother's stereoscope by fusing two pictures into one. Soon the America camera fan can take his pictures, have them developed and printed on polarized film, and then display them in all the depth of real life.

Only technical problems of production remain to be ironed out before three dimension motion pictures become a reality.

POLARIZED GLASSES

While the old stereoscope permitted only one person at a time to view two pictures side by side through a viewing gadget, pictures developed by the new process allow unlimited nu nbers to view the picture at the same time, requiring only that each person wear a pair of polarized glasses.

The photographer needs only a camera with two lenses eye-width apart. Using ordinary film, he can take two pictures of the same scene at the same time—one through each lens, at minutely different angles.

In the development of the films these two pictures would be superimposed one upon the other on polarized transparencies or paper.

Entire secret of the third dimension pictures is wrapped up in Land's process for polarizing, or regimenting light through the film and the glasses.

IT'S IN THE LENSES

Light can be forced to travel in parallel columns. Pictures on the polaroid film appear the same, but the light passing through them is regimented.

In the double film, where the two pictures are superimposed one upon the other, the light on one film is polarized in columns traveling, for instance, veritically, while the light from the other film travels horizontally.

Separating these two is the job of the glasses. Specially constructed, they are made so that the left eye lens permits only one set of columns to pass through the eye, while the right lens permits only the other columns to pass through. Each eye sees a different picture but they blend into a single, three-dimension image.

Man and Wife Live 7 Years as Strangers

For seven years she and her husbadn lived in the same house as strangers, both going their own way. So declared Mrs. Louisa J. Gauthier of Wallis st., Peabody, in seeking a divorce in Salem Probate Court from Elzear Gauthier.

"My husband was out with the boys continually and often stayed away all night," she declared. "We lived as strangers until he left me last March," Judge John A. Costello reserved decision.

A Blitz, But Who Wins?

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

An appointment to the cabinet gives you a nodding acquaintance with the administration. And always in the affirmative.

We guess that Secretaries Knox and Stimson will agree like strawberries and cream. The bewildered Republicans wonder if President Roosevelt is going to conscript all Republicans between the ages of sixty and ninety-nine.

It was a surprise move like a fellow jumping sideways on a checkerboard. It removes two presidential candidates but fails to indicate which party it strengthens.

Another Cold Record Set

This may be the second day of summer, but you can't prove it by the weatherman.

To that worthy it is the coldest June 22 on record.

At precisely 5:30 a. m. he took a peek at his East Boston airport thermometer and, after knocking the icicles off his whiskers, announced a temperature reading of 46.

Lowest previous mark for the day was set in 1881.

And, believe it or not, the Boston temperature was warm compared with that of Concord, where a near low of 34 was recorded.

In the Concord river valley farmers reported frost did considerable damage to crops. The extent has not yet been determined.

Christian Science Text Announced

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, June 23.

The Golden Text is:

"Lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, The Lord, The God of hosts, is his name."—(Amos 4:13).

Woman's Body Found After Suicide Note

A note she left in a handbag today led police to believe that Miss Emma B. Williams, 50, formerly of Waverly and Peterboro, N. H., whose body was recovered from the Charles river, was a suicide.

The victim's hat and handbag were found on the river bank at the foot of Gloucester st., Back Bay.

'Queen of Mob' For Para-Fenway

Blanche Yurka, great classical actress, is "Ma" Webster, ruthless woman gang leader of Paramount's "Queen of the Mob," film adaptation of the J. Edgar Hoover story which comes to the Paramount and Fenway screens next Thusday. J. Carroll Naish and Jean Cagney are importantly featured.

On the same bill will be "Women In War," featuring Wendy Barrie, Patric Knowles and Elsie Janis.

"Queen of the Mob" is the story of a ruthless woman who leads a gang of her own sons through an amazing career of crime, ordering them to rob, murder, kidnap and laugh at the law.

The action, the drama, the suspense build up from the fact that "Ma" Webster is a complex person, alternately brutal and cunning and then suddenly tender and sentimental. Under her guidance the Webster family soon develops into the most deadly mob of supercriminals in the annals of modern crime.

However, "Ma" and her mob soon find themselves pitted against the G-men and the story builds up to an exciting climax with the forces of law and order eliminating them from existence.

"Women in War," story of the lives and loves of modern young women behind the lines and on the battlefield, deals with the emotional problems of the current war.

Boston Shows Louis Fight

The complete official blow-by-blow pictures of the Joe Louis-Arturo Godoy heavyweight championship fight are now being shown exclusively on RKO Boston screen. This is an extra added attraction to the regular screen show featuring two first-run attractions, "Leopard Men of Africa," stirring drama of the Congo and "Half a Sinner," featuring Heather Angel and John King.

While Louis retained his title, the pictures show that Godoy received one of the worst beatings in ring history.

Bette Davis' New 'Heart Interest'

By HARRIET PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 22—Psst! Here's a real underground tip. Bette Davis' secret romance is Richard Nichols, with whom she fell in love with during filming of "ATAHT." Dickie's four, and just about the most enchanting male on the screen. As a result of "ATAHT" he was given a role in "Dispatch From Reuters" (formerly "The Man From Fleet Street") and now he goes into an important spot in the next Lane sisters epic, "Four Mothers."

Questions Answered

By T. W. LEGGETT

SOIL FOR PEONIES

W. F. N., Haverhill: Preparation of the soil is important for growing peonies, which are heavy feeders, requiring a deeply prepared soil. A good loam is best, not too heavy with clay or too light with sand. Stiff clay is unsuitable as is an abundance of fresh manure. Give each plant at least 3 feet of space for development. The soil should be retentive of moisture but well drained. No manure should come in contact with the roots. Imported peat moss and bonemeal worked in the surface soil around established plants is good.

Set plants so the eyes will be 2 to 3 inches below the surface.

Disease is spread by manure left around the bushes. Spray diseased plants weekly from early spring into June with Bordeaux.

GLADIOLI DIP

Mrs. L. H., Lawrence: Bichloride of Mercury dip for Gladioli bulbs is 1 ounce of mercury to 6 gallons of water. Dissolve the powder in hot water, then dilute to correct strength. Use glass, earthenware or wooden receptacles.

Keep at a temperature of 70 degrees F. Soak peeled corms for 3 hours, unpeeled for 12 to 20 hours. Plant promptly after treating.

EUGENIE LEONTOVICH SUPERB ON MET SCREEN

'Four Sons' Dramatic Film

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Four Sons," 20th Century Fox's potent anti-Nazi film drama at the Metropolitan, turns back the pages to an earlier chapter in the world-rocking story of Nazi subjugation.

Suggested by an I. A. R. Wylie story, the original silent picture of 12 years ago has been brought down to date to visualize the absorption of peace-loving Czecho-Slovakia by the swastika government. Simply and effectively, it shows how the Hitler war machine ruthlessly sundered the happiness of the contented Bernle household.

We see it all through the once serenely smiling now tragic, eyes of Eugenie Leontovich's Frau Bernle, mother of four stalwart, young sons.

• • •

There are no battle scenes—just the behind-the-scenes slant on war with mothers bravely smiling as they send their fit and eager sons off to the front and receive them back broken and bitter.

Leontovich, the Russian-born continental stage star, who can be breathtakingly lovely behind the footlights, has chosen to mask her allure behind a suffering mask and the peasant garb of the starring mother role. She was persuaded to make the test for this, her first screen role by her director-actor husband, Gregory Ratoff. She was selected after nearly a score of stage and screen actresses had been tested.

Since the release of this Darryl F. Zanuck production, Fox is having competition with other studios for her talented services. Fine actress that she is, she plays this difficult role with restraint and deep understanding. She is all mothers, the soldiers without uniform who have none of the glory and all of the heartbreak of war.

• • •

Don Ameche, Alan Curtis, George Ernest and Robert Lowery are cast as the sons. Ameche, as the Czech patriot to the last, who crosses with Curtis, turned storm trooper, gives one of his better performances. He is sincere and convincing. Curtis' fifth columnist is another credible performance. Mary Beth Hughes, blondely beautiful Fox starlet, is appealing and spirited as the latter's loyal wife.

As background for all this, there are the verdant, fertile farmlands of Czechoslovakia mutely bearing witness against the ruthless helmeted invaders. Archie Mayo's thoughtful direction is a distinguishing mark of this well-made production.

The second feature, "Murder In the Air," is a Warners' picture featuring Eddie Foy, Jr., Ronald Reagan and James Stephenson. Lewis Seiler directed.

TALENTED Maureen O'Hara will return to the RKO Boston screen next Thursday in "Bill of Divorcement." Maureen is one of Hollywood's best box office attractions.

'Monroe Doctrine' on So. Station Screen

"The Monroe Doctrine," a technicolor film dealing with the formulation of America's first great stand in foreign affairs, is the South Station screen feature.

A timely travel subject, "The Dutch East Indies," pictures those parts of the Pacific coveted by Japan. Other short films include two color cartoons: "Hollywood Stunt Men," and others.

Quick Meals With Soups

By MARTHA LEE

These are the days when the business homemaker appreciates the canned staples on her pantry self more than any other time during the year. There are soups, meats, vegetables, fruits, etc., that need but the opening of the can and a little heating or chilling to make top-notch meals.

It is a good idea to keep the cans of vegetables, meats and fruits in the refrigerator during the day so they will be nicely chilled for cold platters, salads and desserts for the evening meal. And even jellied soups may be had by chilling the cans.

Here is an idea for delicious, substantial hot soups that combine different flavors:

CREAM OF CELERY AND CHICKEN SOUP

1 can condensed celery soup
1 can condensed chicken soup
1 can milk, using soup can for measure
can water, using soup can for measure

Stir the chicken soup into the celery soup. Then add 1 can of milk and 1 can of water. Heat to boiling and serve.

CHICKEN-VEGETABLE SOUP

1 can condensed chicken soup
1 can water, using soup can for measure
1 can condensed vegetable soup

To the chicken soup add 1 can of water. Heat and then just before serving add the vegetable soup. Heat and serve.

Numerous salad combinations can be made with vegetables, fish and meats of your own choice.

PEAR MACAROON SALAD

Halves of canned pears
1 pkg. cream cheese
Macaroon crumbs
Maraschino cherries
Mayonnaise

Mash cheese, and spread a thin layer on a half of pear. Cover with another half of pear and dip the whole pear, thus formed, in macaroon crumbs. To prepare crumbs, roll dry macaroons finely with a rolling pan. Serve the fruit in a deep cup of crisp lettuce, garnishing the top with a maraschino cherry, cut in half. Place a spoonful of mayonnaise at one side.

TUNA FISH SALAD

1 7-ounce can tuna fish
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup diced cucumber
1 cup canned peas, well drained
2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 tsp. prepared mustard
½ tsp. vinegar
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. sugar
4 stuffed olives
Bits of green pepper

Wash oil from tuna fish with hot water, then drain and chill. Flake fish, then add vegetables, eggs, and mayonnaise, mustard, vinegar, salt and sugar which have been thoroughly blended. Mix lightly. Serve in lettuce cups and garnish with olives and bits of green pepper.

CHICKEN SALAD

1¼ cups canned chicken, cut in cubes
1 hard cooked egg
1 cup celery, cut in pieces
Olives
1½ cup chopped preserved sweet pickles
½ tsp. salt
Mayonnaise

Combine chicken, celery, pickle and salt. Slice eggs, reserving three or four perfect slices for garnishing. Add eggs to chicken mixture and moisten with mayonnaise. Mound in salad bowl on bed of crisp lettuce. Cover top with mayonnaise. Garnish with capers, slice of egg and olives.

New Grooming Tricks

SHE'S SMART as can be in her action suit of flesh-colored knit, boasting a tricky weave and adjustable straps . . . and she's just as smart about grooming tricks that keep her hair soft, fluffy and shining while other girls' locks look gummy and dull from salt water. In her beach bag, she's included a bottle of waterless shampoo . . . to use after her swim, instead of sticking her head under a shower. It's a fragrant liquid that is rubbed to a luxurious, cleansing lather without the use of water, and then rubbed off with a coarse towel. The hair shimmers magically, and is fluffy as a summer cloud. You Can Be Beautiful

New Sun-Preventive With Glamorous Make-Up Base

By ARLINE GOULD

A RARE item to find for the summer vacationer's needs is a sun-preventive which is a glamorous make-up base, instead of an oil that absorbs the powder and turns it into a mucky lather.

It is a beautifully fragrant thick cream . . . so thick it pours slowly . . . and it has a decided affinity for your complexion tissues, as you'll find out. They just seem to lap it up contentedly, with no sign of oiliness, just a faint, pleasant sheen which you may or may not want to cover up with powder.

For the beach, we'd say to go ahead and gleam. But you'll be so delighted with the smoothness of make-up over it, that you'll adopt it for good and all, and will probably use it in the evening, when nothing threatens your skin . . . except perhaps you might get moon-struck!

It shouldn't, of course, be confined to the face. It has absolutely sure protective ingredients in it, so there will be no risk of hurt from sunburn . . . and it's so delightful to use, that you'll enjoy dashing it on at frequent intervals. It should be used after swimming. And if you insist on camping on the beach for hours, renew your coating of it fairly often, say every hour or two.

A bottle which should last many vacation weeks is only a dollar, and you'll be proud of its exceptional quality and the dainty prettiness of the bottle.

If you'd like to learn about this sunburn protective in cream lotion form which makes a most glamorous make-up base as well . . . phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, weekdays except Saturday, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Love And Marriage

Divorcee Asks About Gown

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a divorcee with a three-year-old son, and am going to be married soon. I am 23 and my boy friend is 27. Our wedding is to be in June at four o'clock in the afternoon in his church, and I would like to know if it would be all right to wear a pink satin formal and pink finger-tip veil. Or what would be the correct attire?

M. S.

Veils are not considered in good taste at a second wedding. And these days girls consult their own taste in selecting their wedding dresses. But a pink satin formal at four in the afternoon does not seem the happiest choice. If you have an evening wedding at half past six or seven, the pink satin would be charming, especially if you wear it with a picture hat, a nice floppy one.

If four o'clock is a more convenient hour, don't you think something in powder blue, beige or coral would be in better taste? One is not supposed to wear a formal gown before six. My best wishes to you.

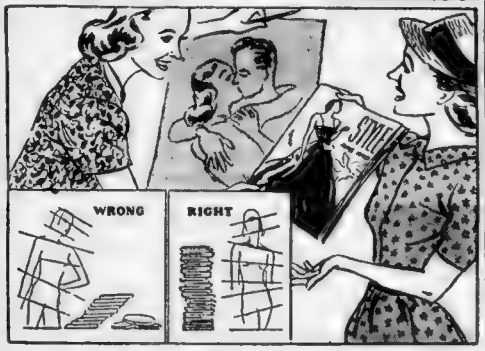
Study Fashion Art at Home



LEARN METHODS OF SUCCESSFUL ARTISTS

So often a girl will draw well enough to make attractive pictures for her room—but never realize what she could really do with her talent.

If you like to sketch you ought to specialize—get into a field such as fashion art, where your ability can bring you money and an interesting career.

Professional methods in fashion drawing may be studied at home. With the aid of charts and diagrams you can familiarize yourself with the proportions of the human body and learn to draw it in different poses.

See how clearly the diagrams with our picture illustrate the principles of balance, necessary to know in giving grace to your figures.

Notice that a stack of coins, if the weight is unevenly distributed, will fall. Similarly, in drawing the human figure if you distribute weight unevenly the body seems to be falling over.

Our 40-page booklet, Home Course in Fashion Art, shows in simple steps how to draw glamorous fashion figures. Has 138 illustrations, including charts based on the Da Vinci rules of figure proportion; explains light and shade, wash, composition, foreshortening, rendering of furs and fabrics. A guide to professional, well-paid work.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, Home Course in Fashion Art, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 19th St., New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

NEEDING production for armament, the Administration is properly turning for co-operation to the very industrialists who for seven years have been in the dog house.

The Government will find these useful citizens ready, willing and able to help make our national defenses impregnable.

But it should create an atmosphere for co-operation by eliminating the new ambiguities and restraints which have been destructively created in recent years in the name of "reform."

In particular, business men who are asked by one branch of the Government to "co-operate" should not be prosecuted later by another branch for doing so.

In a recent address at York, Me., Gilbert H. Montague, of the New York Bar, an authority on anti-trust law, raised some pertinent questions.

Referring to the new hobbles placed on business progress by Attorney General Jackson, Thurman Arnold, and by the courts, he asked:

"Can business men, in advance of obtaining express immunity from Congress, safely co-operate with one another under national defense programs now being pushed by the National Defense Council and Advisory Commission, when such co-operation to some extent and in some degree may have the purpose and effect of 'raising, depressing, fixing, pegging or stabilizing the price of a commodity?'

"Without the 'rule of reason' or some other form of flexibility, the Sherman Act as now interpreted by the Supreme Court spells economic chaos for many industries which are essential today in the American economy."

In these serious times, the safety of the nation depends on inter-group harmony and teamwork.

Accordingly, in addition to appropriating billions for defense, Congress has an obligation to write into the laws certainty that the type of co-operation asked of industry by the Administration will not constitute a technical violation of vague statutes.

The time has again come to honor men of achievement and character and to stop the persecution of thrift and industry.

LOCUST SWARMS inspire interesting stories on Cape Cod. Great clouds of the insects appear along the Yarmouth-Hyannis highway. When disturbed by passing automobiles, they arise with such a clamor that motorists usually stop to watch them.

Actually, these are not locust swarms. They are cicadas, harmless insects and very noisy.

Their loud, piercing notes issue from a pair of structures on the underside of their bodies, which act somewhat as two timbals would.

Longest-lived of any insect, the cicadas remain for more than 16 years under the ground sucking the roots of forest trees.

Then, having reached maturity, they emerge in great numbers to fly over the countryside, breed and die.

Our locusts are really a tourist attraction. They visit our orchards and gardens, but they do not destroy them.

Their return after a long absence is just another reminder that in a thousand and one different ways we in New England are more fortunate than persons in other parts of the country.

FEW WILL DENY that the United States has been entirely too tolerant of subversive individuals and organizations for its own good and safety.

It has been convincingly demonstrated in other countries, many of which no longer exist as free countries, that subversion becomes the stepping stone of invasion and conquest whenever the opportunity presents itself.

We should not delude ourselves that the so-called "Fifth Columns" which have hastened the destruction of European nations do not exist in the United States.

They probably exist here in greater force and strength than in any land in the world.

They should not have the benefit and protection of American institutions they conspire to destroy.

VIOLENT DEMONSTRATONS of hatred against individuals and organizations cannot be frowned upon and then ignored in the United States.

The bombings which caused damage this week in New York City may be the European method of registering disapproval.

Communism, Fascism and Naziism all came into being attended by such shows of gangster pyrotechnics.

But acts of unrestrained lawlessness and contempt for the lives, rights and property of other persons are certainly not the American way.

In a world of crumbling democracies, in which we are unitedly striving to preserve our own, we cannot afford to become lax or appear even to tolerate the forces which have destroyed other nations and governments.

-:- -:- MY DAY

HYDE PARK, June 22—Yesterday morning I drove along the Hudson river via the Parkway, where the planting of laurel is most beautiful at this season. The Parkway Extension which now takes you just east of Poughkeepsie, has some beautiful views over wide valleys and in one place, a lovely view of the Catskill mountains.

Thursday was a very interesting day for me. I saw two very successful National Youth Administration projects in the early afternoon. The first one is giving training in radio work. I enjoyed the orchestras, bands and choruses at work.

Many young people are being trained in the technical end which makes the programs possible. At the same time, they receive instruction as radio operators for ships and various other purposes, all part of our defense program. This is non-military training of use for war purposes and for daily living.

THEN I went to a big workshop in Astoria, Long Island. It is one of the best shops I have ever seen in which training in many different kinds of work is being given.

There is a machine shop, an upholstery shop, a sewing project and many other things. The suggestion is sometimes made that in giving boys and girls such training we are only adding to the number of unemployed in various trades.

To me, this does not seem to hold water. Skills are picked which will be useful in many ways even in improving the conditions of the home. There is specialization in skills where there seems to be an opportunity for increase in employment.

For the young, however, learning any skill is valuable, for it makes them adaptable to a variety of things.

WE CANNOT let our young people grow up twiddling their thumbs, in order that they may not clog the labor market. The labor market is clogged because we have not learned to manage our civilization.

I will grant that every project in NYA and WPA is a challenge to our intelligence, but that is no reason for deserting these problems and leaving men, women and young people with nothing to do.

I went to the World's Fair and met Col. Somervell, Mrs. Florence Kerr and various other WPA state officials.

I saw the WPA building, which I think is more interesting this year than last. It shows how much useful work is being done all over this country by people on WPA jobs.

These projects may be costing the taxpayers some money, but I doubt if they ever drew more good, solid returns from any investment for themselves or their communities than they have through this program.

I also visited the New York State Building and was delighted to see Mrs. Lehman, wife of the Governor of New York, as well as all the other New York state people assembled there. I think this building has perhaps as interesting exhibits as any of the state buildings and I would like to have had more time to see them.

WELLES FUMBLES IN FIRST MOVIE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, June 22—Orson Welles has finally made his first test for his first movie, "Citizen Kane." Ruth Warwick flew from New York to be tested for the leading role opposite Welles. This was the great moment for which RKO had been waiting for more than a year—the moment when Welles at last would appear before a movie camera . . . While the RKO officials congregated on the stage to witness this historic event, Miss Warwick delivered the test line: "You're living up to your reputation, Mr. Kane" . . . The nervous Welles fumbled his reply and so she tried again: "You're living up to your reputation, Mr. Kane." Again Welles fumbled and again. At the eighth blowup of Orson's line Miss Warwick said: "You're living up to your reputation, Mr. Welles."

• • •

A FEW MINUTES before Welles made this first test a liveried chauffeur brought a huge flower-box to the set. Orson opened it with great anticipation and found that it contained nothing but ill-smelling, decayed flowers. The accompanying note read: "I ordered these when you were going to start your picture, on Oct. 10, 1939. I've tried to keep them fresh since that day. —Errol Flynn."

One of our correspondents insists that collection of double the amount of money which the law's intent makes available has been accomplished . . . The danger of the discovery is the speed with which such "good" news travels . . . To prevent a mass assault on the commission's funds, or the exhaustion of the staff through answering importunate aid-seekers seeking "double relief," this paragraph might be valuable . . . Because the notion that the commission can be transformed into a summer Santa Claus is taking wings in several sections of Boston.

YET IT ISN'T a case of doubling in brass to the exclusion of some other youngsters who might please the patrons of the Cocoanut Grove . . . The management simply couldn't find any unemployed professional piano players—of the weaker sex—who could fill the difficult bill of keeping things lively while Micky Alpert's orchestra rested "between sets" . . . JUDY GARLAND is seen around more than occasionally with Dave Rose, Martha Raye's ex. They were at the Lamaze three nights in a row and more recently at the Little Hungary. My guess would be no romance—just a mutual liking and interest in music; Bill Powell's bride, Diane Lewis, feels slightly like a chameleon, having changed the color of her hair twice in two weeks. She lightened it to almost blonde, then got studio orders to darken it again for "Bittersweet."

TWO-MINUTE STORY

THE old-fashioned, full-length mirror in the bedroom of the Carson home reflected a vision lovely to see, because Cynthia Carson stood before it, dressed in yards of voluminous white veiling. Her white net dress fitted her as neatly and as trimly as she had hoped it would.

She turned from the mirror, and going to the bureau, opened one of the drawers, from whence she withdrew a necklace of pearls.

"Something old," she spoke aloud, making a gesture which took in her long, white gown, "and something new," she said, holding up the chain of pearls.

SUDDENLY, the door of the bedroom opened, and a man entered. He stood for a moment on the threshold, staring at her in wide-eyed amazement.

"Cynthia!" he exclaimed in surprise.

"Hello George. How do I look?"

"Like an angel!" he spoke softly.

"Do you really think so—even if the dress is a little old-fashioned?"

"It was my mother's wedding gown, you know, and she made it over for me."

"I know, but no one could look more beautiful in it than you do."

"Thank you, kind sir," she said laughingly, as her eyes lit up, and she blushed with the prerogative of a bride.

"Oh, I almost forget . . . your flowers, Cynthia," and she was picked up the flowers from the table where he had laid them upon entering.

"Thank you, George. They're lovely."

"Say," George exclaimed with sudden gaiety, "what about the music?" and before his bride could respond, he ran from the room.

WHEN he returned, Cynthia could hear the lovely strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March floating through the air.

Smiling lovingly down at her, George offered his arm to her, and together they descended the long carpeted stairway in perfect time to the music.

They reached the foot of the stairs, and walked steadily into the living room, where everything was immaculately clean for the joyous occasion. At the doorway, Cynthia stopped, and reluctantly turning to George, she said:

"That was lovely, George, and lots of fun, but really—what will the neighbors think if they see us like this? You turn the phonograph off, and I'll go upstairs and change. Oh! thank you again for the flowers. We did have a happy anniversary—even if it was our tenth!"

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

I'M GROWING OLD. And it's swell! Mind you, I wasn't any keener on antiquity than you are. We've such a dread of age, we humans. The years slip by, and with each birthday we enumerate and sniffle over our losses.

There go the bulging muscles of our campus days . . . or the shining, golden curls which needed no artificial "tint."

As a dreader and rebeller, I was right out in the front row with the best cry babies, trying all the usual tricks to turn the old clock back. Even had my hair dyed once. Turned out a lively salmon pink. Decided—pronto!—that, henceforth, the silver threads could remain among the gold unmolested.

After which I stopped caring how I looked, stopped being interested in or curious about the world around me. In short, I surrendered to the usual mid-forty flop.

THEN a surprising and delightful thing began to happen. For the moment I turned the spotlight off myself, I began to discover an entirely new world in the unexplored spaces surrounding me.

Here was an utterly different perspective on life . . . values I had never expected . . . beauty and nobility, charm and chortling mirth hitherto unknown . . . endless horizons whose existence had been blotted out by my narrow concentration on myself and my personal peeves and prejudices.

Now, with that Self parked on the sidelines, these hidden wonders began to emerge.

WE CAN, in those more impersonal years, step outside ourselves and see things as God sees them, from the long view. And from that view the chafing details will fade away . . . the petty feuds and fears . . . and we may know a sanity and serenity which has never touched our fevered flesh before. Provided we want to know it!

Good to be growing old? I'll say it is! The grandest period in life . . . like riding the airways instead of the Teeneyville trolley . . . seeing life in millionmile vistas instead of snippy snatches.

Not that any of us can clutch such peace and power permanently . . . we're still too wet behind the ears . . . still too intent on taking life as a serious, as a personal gimme game. But if we can rise above our own little [illegible] even for a little—if we can [illegible] a glimpse of its tremendous [illegible] we'll find compensation for all the wounds that didn't heal and the [illegible] we couldn't find.

YES, it's swell to grow old—if you can take it! And I'M doing it on HIGH

Reformation of Abel

By Charles McGuirk

WELL, they electrocuted Moe Krantz at Sing Sing Thursday and very little grief was caused by his passing except among the members of his immediate family. He went to his death calmly, even cynically, snipping his last cigarette into the toilet of his death cell with the remark that he guessed at last that he would have to give up smoking.

As the district attorney said in summing up his case against him, Moe was one of the most vicious criminals ever produced in New York city. He was a thief, a pander, a narcotic pedlar and a killer.

"The state," the district attorney declared, raising his voice a little, "will be as well rid of this man as an Indian garden would be of a deadly cobra which lurks along the paths to bury its lethal venom into innocent victims. He deserves neither mercy nor consideration. There is not one spot of decency in his makeup to deserve a drop of mercy or consideration. He has not one single human quality. He lacks loyalty, love, gentleness, honesty and mercy. I do not ask for the death verdict in his case. I demand it. The state rests."

He got the death verdict and the death sentence and Moe got electrocuted. For the most part, the district attorney was correct in his summation of Moe's character. But he was wrong—a little. Moe did not lack all the human qualities. He had a little love and a little loyalty.

Underworld grapevine gossip credited Moe with 23 killings, but he was tried for the murder of Marmer Moscowitz, a furrier. It was purely a routine business killing. Marmer refused to submit to a shakedown of $50,000 for "protection" offered by Moe's organization. After several persuasive gestures had been made like throwing acid on his furs and bombing his establishment, Moe walked into the place one morning and shot him dead.

A DOOMED MAN

The murder was so cold-blooded that public sentiment was aroused and Moe went to trial with two strikes already on him. Even the district attorney took little credit for the conviction. As he said, anybody could have convicted Moe, because the case against him was dead open and shut.

Among Moe's battery of defending lawyers, a most notable and expensive one because Moe was one of the city's racketeers, sat Abel Krantz, Moe's brother. The two looked enough alike to betray their relationship, but if you studied them it might occur to you that they could be two versions of the same figure after having been worked on by two different sculptors.

Moe was heavy set and paunchy. His head was square, his mouth thin and cruel, his eyes cold as a snake's and his chin jutting. He looked like what he was, a beast of the jungle preying in an unending series of raids upon society. Abel was square but not bulgy of body. His eyes were alive with sympathy and intelligence. His mouth was gentle. He looked like what he was, a citizen of better than average potentalities, a professional man. Abel was a lawyer.

He was the most faithful attendant and the most careful observer of the five-day trial. He watched the district attorney's every move and leaned forward now and then to offer suggestions to Sam Bernstorf, head of counsel. His suggestions were always shrewd and frequently very effective., and Sam said afterward that that Abel Krantz was a comer.

The Cast of Characters in 'The Reformation of Abel'

MOE KRANTZ, a gangster who is determined that

ABEL, his younger brother, does not also lead a life of crime.

If Moe's crime had been one of passion, the papers might have sent their sob sisters to cover it. They immediately would have played up the love displayed for each other by the two brothers. Every time during the trial that a point was scored against Moe, Abel would put his hand and touch his older brother's sleeve. And whenever Abel leaned forward with one of his suggestions Moe's eyes would beam with pride.

A lot of people remarked that you had to give it to Abel for his loyalty. When all was said and done, it didn't help him any among corporation lawyers and property owners to be not only a killer's brother but to flaunt the fact for all the world to see. But Abel never thought of that fact and if Moe did, he didn't show it. Yet, if it hadn't been for Moe, Abel might have been sitting right beside him as a co-defendant or defending himself in another trial because there was a time when Abel's ambitions ran along those lines.

That was 15 years ago and somewhere in the middle Twenties. Moe, even then, was already established as a major figure in the world of crime. He would be about 27 and the "no-good-son" of Abraham Krantz, a little Russian tailor who lived with his wife, Rebecca, and Abel, his youngest son and child in the vicinity of Grand street.

ALMOST HONEST

Moe, at that time, was "going straight," according to him and even the neighbors. He was a muscle man for a liquor mob and as liquor at that time was considered legal by everybody but the government and the snooping prohibition sleuths, the money he made by guarding the trucks of Abie, the Ape from hi-jackers on their trips from Chicago and South Jersey and Canada into New York was practically legitimate money.

But he couldn't make his father believe it. "Moe," the old man told him sadly, "you are a goneff. You have been in prison for it. You are generally no-good. You would lie as quickly as you would steal. You would fool your parents as quickly as you would disrespect them. I do not believe you have turned honest. I want no part of any of your money. Neither does your mother. Neither does your brother."

He made this speech the night Moe suddenly materialized in the kitchen of the Krantz home and sought to press a large roll of bills on the family.

"Here's a few bucks I happened to pick up," he unfortunately expressed it and thereby incurred his father's indignant refusal.

Later, Moe talked to Abel, then fifteen and ambitious to be as tough in the neighborhood as his older brother had already proven himself.

"Look, Kid," he told him, "the old man is from the old country and he's old fashioned and he don't understand. But this is really honest money. I get paid a double sawbuck a day for guarding trucks and I made a little strike in a crap game. What I want to do with this dough is to see that you get an education. I want you to amount to something for Ma's and the old man's sake. I want you to be a doctor or a lawyer or something. You know. Up to now, the Krantzes have always been nice people."

"Nuts to that," Abel answered him in his toughest manner. "I ain't wasting a lifetime in school picking up an education. I want to make my dough fast and I know how to do it."

"How?" Moe asked with deceptive mildness.

"Well, if I really wanted to work, I could make it in the ring. I can handle my dukes and Harry Mandel could get me fights I can make money easier. I'm at the head of my mob. We shake down storekeepers. If I want a bundle of dough in a hurry, there's always a chance to stick up a guy or even hi'st a bank."

BROTHERLY ADVICE

"I see," Moe said. "You're good and tough. So it wouldn't do no good to talk to you, would it, kid? It wouldn't do no good to tell you that after five years in the rackets I know that I'll end up on a slab in the morgue or up at the Big House. It wouldn't do you no good if I told you that I wished I never got into the rackets and that if I could, I would get out of them in a minute. But I can't get out. That is why I want you to start out in life legitimate and stay that way. So I won't tell you to do it that way. But I will tell you that if I ever hear of you pulling anything like you said, I'll see that you get the works, either from the guy you stuck up or even from the police. One Krantz is enough to turn out bad. There ain't going to be no more in the family."

"Nuts," Abel repeated, "you ain't telling me anything."

Three nights later, Abel and two assistants stuck up a crap game in a cheap hotel on Bleecker street and got away with a thousand dollars. It happened that one of the players was a member of Able, the Ape's mob, and he was very angry indeed.

"Nobody's going to make a sucker out of me," he told Moe angrily, "even if he is that punk of a brother of yours. And I'm going to get my dough back even if he goes into the river."

"How much of yours did he get?" Moe asked.

"Five C's," the despoiled gangster told him.

"I'm making it good," Moe told hi mand counted five hundred dollars into his hand. "Now, I want you to do me a favor. I want you to find the door. Moe was standing there. His gun was in his hand. He advanced into the room. The others put their guns away.

"Who you got here?" he demanded.

"A punk that stuck up Benny in a crap game the other night."

He peered down at the figure of the most paralyzed Abel, who lay trussed on the floor.

"Listen, guys," Moe said huskily, "this my kid brother."

"Awhat?" said the mobster who had been robbed.

"S'll make good whatever he stole Moe said, "and I'll promise that'll never do a thing like that again."

They eight talked it over among themselves and while they did so, Moe had his say to Abel.

"I get you out of this if you promise to go straight and never get mixed up in any racket," he told him. "It's up to you."

"Ok.," the terrorized Abel promised and 10 minutes later he was booted out of the room.

While his frantically speeding footsteps had died away, Moe turned to the other members of the mob.

"Thanks, guys," he said. "You know how it is."

"You are generally no good," Moe's father told him. "You would lie as quickly as you would steal. You would fool your parents as quickly as you would disrespect them."

"THANKS, GUYS"

The mobster and three companions picked up Abel two nights later at the point of a gun and brought him to the room on West street. He found five of Abie the Ape's mob waiting for him. One of them was heating a poker over the gas jet. He went right on heating it as one of Abel's captors suddenly hit him on the side of the jaw, knocking him to the floor. The eight took turns hitting and kicking him until the man who was heating the poker said, "O. K., throw him down. We'll put the iron on his face. He's too damn tough to go around without being marked."

Abel was tough and he fought hard but he couldn't fight against eight. They had thrown him to the floor within a minute and the man with the red-hot poker was bending over him and bringing the poker closer to his face when there was a banging on the door.

The eight in the room reached for their guns and one of them

And that is how Abel became a corporation lawyer.

THE END.

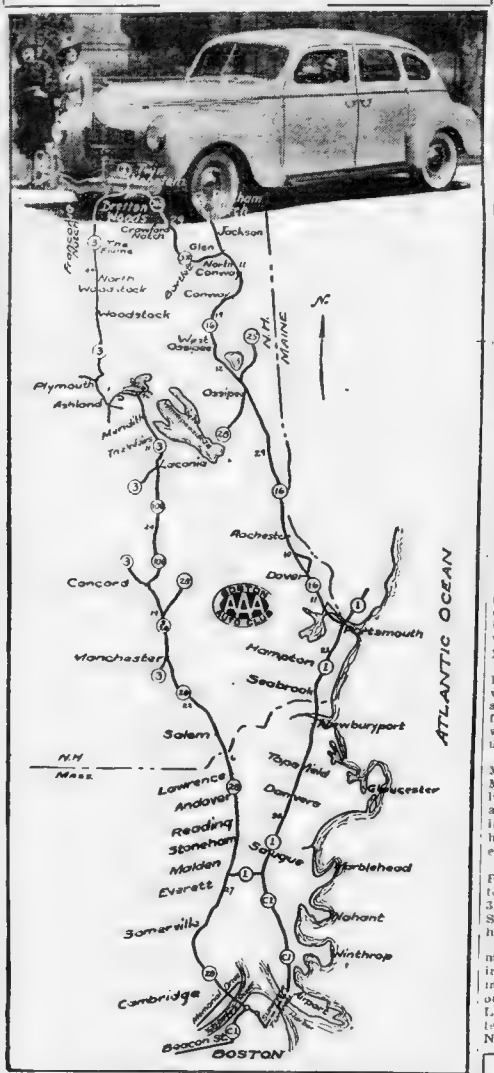
Motor and Outing News

By J. LEO SUGRUE, Automobile Editor

Two-Day New Hampshire Tour



J. LEO SUGRUE, automobile editor of the American, and Messrs. Kirk and Clift of the Boston Auto Club . . . tried and tested this Granite State trip in a 1940 Dodge Sedan, illustrated above.

2-DAY TRIP INTO NEW HAMPSHIRE

The fifth tested motor trip in the Boston American series takes two or more days into the scenic byways of the Granite State just north of us.

Our test pilots, Howard L. Kirk and William T. Clift of the Boston Auto Club, headed the 1940 Hollywood model Dodge sedan north along the comparatively fast Newburyport turnpike. When you make this trip don't try it too fast, as the town of Topsfield have posted this highway in their township and are arresting those motorists who drive in excess of 25 miles an hour.

We did not stop at Newburyport, but followed through into the turnpike underpass. The Towle Company and Caldwell Distilleries are interesting and can be visited by those who have time and are interested. We continued north to Portsmouth, N. H., with its many reminders of Colonial times.

NAVY YARD BUSY

Across the harbor can be seen a great deal of activity in the United States Navy Yard.

We continued north on No. 16 and encountered in turn, Ossipee, Conway, and North Conway . . . all picturesque communities in a fine resort area, noted for its natural beauty, lakes, mountains and fine air.

Our car was headed into Crawford Notch on No. 302 and along the Saco river. Remarkable views of Mt. Webster and Mt. Welley can be seen from the Crawford House which is located in the Notch.

NO HAY FEVER HERE

No. 302 takes us on through Bretton Woods to Twin Mountain where fine golf courses and resort hotels and all recreational facilities are available and by the way . . . where hay fever is an unknown quantity.

Continuing south from Twin Mountain on No. 3, the Flume, Old Man of the Mountain and Mirror lake are all attractions and there are a great many trails available in this section on which interesting hikes and nature studies can be enjoyed.

Continuing south on No. 3 through Plymouth, The Weirs and Laconia to route 106, to the junction of No. 3 and then south on 28 through Salem, N. H., Andover and back home.

This is a tour that can be easily made in two days and has enough interest so that weeks can be spent in the resort area or vicinity of one of the lakes: such as, Squam Lake, Winnipesaukee, or in alternate tours including Pinkham Notch and Dixville Notch.

2-Millionth Pontiac Produced

THE 2,000,000th Pontiac was stopped on the assembly line and greeted by (left to right) E. F. Fisher, general manager, Fisher Body Corporation; D. U. Bathrick, general sales manager and H. J. Klingler, president and general sales manager of Pontiac.

CHEVROLET SHOWN HERE AFTER 405,405 MILES

A car which ran almost continuously for three years in the hands of its original owners, averaging more than 375 miles a day and covering a total of 405,405 miles was being proudly displayed by Pete Minnock, Boston zone manager of the Fleet Sales Division of General Motors.

Mr. Minnock and H. K. Bragle, New England regional manager of Chevrolet, and H. J. Walsh, Boston zone manager of Chevrolet, were exhibiting this car in Boston to emphasize the durability and economy of the car.

The exceptional record, equivalent to 16 trips around the globe—was all within the state of New Jersey and was made in the service of the New Jersey highway department, which used the car in highway survey work.

The mileage and cost record takes on additional importance by reason of the fact that the department maintained an accurate breakdown of operating and maintenance cost throughout the entire life of the car.

Three drivers, working in eight-hour shifts, kept the unit on the move so constantly that from the day of its purchase, Dec. 23, 1936, until Dec. 4, 1939, its engine rarely had a chance to cool. Minor repairs were made from time to time, but the car had only one general overhauling during its entire service period, that being performed at 237,000 miles.

Official cost figures maintained by the highway department, and reproduced on the sides of the car over the signatures of the department secretary, show that in spite of the adverse conditions surrounding its operation, the car averaged 16.7 miles per gallon of gasoline, and cost the New Jersey taxpayers only 1½ cents a mile to run, including gasoline, oil, lubricants, tires, tubes, parts, repair labor and depreciation.

Farm Youths Found Best Truck Drivers

"America's best truck drivers are boys from the farm" says Edward Smithwick of Detroit, recently named by the National Safety Council as Champion Safe Driver of the United States in interstate transportation.

Smithwick's citation was for driving 1,222,000 miles without an accident. Starting at the age of 14, he has been a truck driver for 16 years.

"I was born on a farm near Croswell in the 'thumb' district of Michigan," said Smithwick.

"I'm positive that a national survey would prove that the truck drivers of the nation who have the best records for safety and efficiency are those who came from the farm."

Car Driven 405,405 Miles—Here

PETE MINNOCK, Boston manager of the Fleet Sales Division of General Motors; H. K. Bragle, (center) Chevrolet regional manager and H. J. Walsh (right), Chevrolet Boston zone manager, are inspecting the Chevrolet recently retired by New Jersey after it set a mileage record equivalent to 16 trips around the globe.

General Motors Produces Its 26,000,000th Automobile

Without benefit of fanfare, the 26,000,000th automobile to be built by General Motors Corp. came off the assembly line this week to take its place on the highways of America.

Production of the 26,000,000th car was recorded approximately five months from the date the 25,000,000th General Motors car rolled off the assembly line on January 11, 1940.

General Motors produced its first car in 1908 and it was not until 10 years later that its one millionth car was built. This is in marked contrast to the fact that it required but five months to build 1,000,000 cars in 1940.

The 26,000,000th General Motors car, which was sealed in a glass case by Charles F. Kettering, vice-president of General Motors Corp. in charge of Research, is now on display in the General Motors Building at the New York World's Fair.

Fellow Auto Workers Honor Michael Pierre

Michael Pierre, service manager of the Motor Car Company of New England was honored by fellow workers at the annual outing staged at Sibley Ten Acres.

Dwight T Hersey, vice-president, presented Pierre with a solid gold watch in appreciation of 25 years of service with this Pontiac organization. The employes who served with Pierre for 15 years presented him with a clock. Charles R. Dunbar, president, George W. Bradburn, treasurer and William Sullivan, salesmanager delivered talks.

Mercury Car Sets Record

DEARBORN, Mich., June 22—Total production of 1940 model Mercury 8 cars has now outstripped production for the entire 1939 model year, establishing another important record for this Ford-built car in its second year, it was announced today at the offices of the Ford Motor Co.

At the close of business May 31 production of 1940 model Mercury cars had reached a total of 74,833 units, compared with a total of 70,859 Mercury cars built in the 1939 season.

JOE LOUIS' NEXT opponent will be the winner of the Max Baer-Tony Galento bout that will be held at Jersey City on July 2 . . . Louis has already knocked out both Baer and Galento . . . The "Brown Bomber" improves his ring technique in return matches to which statement Arturo Godoy of Chile will bear testimony.

BILLY CONN

Neither Baer nor Galento has even a remote chance of winning from Louis . . . Baer still thinks the boxing game is something to give him laughs, while Galento has reached an age in life when he cannot hope to become a champion . . . It is a sorry state of affairs in the heavyweight division when second class boxers like Baer and Galento are considered seriously for a championship match.

Every possible effort is being made to build up Billy Conn as a heavyweight contender . . . He looks like the only boxer who could draw a large gate with Louis . . . Conn is world's light heavyweight champion, and at his present weight of 172 to 174 pounds he has not a chance against the 199-pound Louis . . . I saw Conn step on the scales at the Hotel Edison in New York the other day and with his street clothes he scales 180 pounds . . . After three weeks of training Conn could not hope to weigh more than 174 pounds.

Conn is a handsome, well set up youngster, and he should not be rushed into a Louis bout at this stage of his career . . . He does not need the loser's end of the purse as he has been earning large sums of money for the past two years . . . Conn should wait for two more years before meeting Louis . . . By that time he will have packed on additional weight, while Louis will have started to slip.

ARTURO GODOY displayed a world of courage in his losing bout with Louis . . . He also convinced the 27,000 fans who saw the contest that he was in excellent physical condition . . . The Chilean Chiller recuperated quickly between rounds, and showed the results of two solid months of training.

Unfortunately for Godoy, he isn't much of a puncher . . . None of his blows hurt Louis, and it isn't a secret that the champion does not take a sock around his head well . . . Godoy forced the issue for the first part of the battle, but this didn't get him anything as he usually ran into Louis' punches.

Godoy got a bad break when he suffered a severe wound over his left eye in the first round . . . Arturo charged that Louis butted him . . . Such was not the case . . . Louis did the damage with a short, overhand right-hand punch . . . Al Weill, Godoy's manager, did a good job on the wound between each round . . . Referee Billy Cavanagh and Dr. William Walker also kept close check on the condition of the eye, and found that the injury at no time warranted the bout being stopped.

In the early rounds Louis picked the spots for his punches carefully as he didn't wish to risk breaking his hands on Godoy's head . . . Once Louis started to go to town in the sixth round, he cut loose with everything he had and administered a terrific thumping to the courageous South American.

* * *

THE 12-ROUND bout between Hammering Henry Armstrong and Lew Jenkins in New York on July 13 is likely to be the top bout of the season as far as public interest is concerned . . . Jenkins is a red hot card in New York as a result of his quick knockout of Lou Ambers, while Armstrong has always given satisfactory bouts.

Along Broadway it is believed that Jenkins will have to win by a knockout or bow to Armstrong's superior boxing . . . If the bout goes the limit, Armstrong is expected to get the duke.

The Billy Conn-Bob Pastor bout on Aug. 13 has also attracted considerable attention . . . This contest will mark Conn's entrance into the heavyweight class . . . Pastor went 11 rounds with Louis at Detroit, and might have gone the full distance of 15 rounds if he didn't get a silly idea in his head that he could outpunch the "Brown Bomber."

Jimmy Johnston says Pastor will be at his best for the Conn bout and that he will win decisively . . . In the event of a Pastor victory, you may expect to see Bob seeking another crack at Louis.

* * *

JOHNNY SHKOR, Johnny Buckley's young heavyweight, has developed a following in New York . . . Shkor has been knocking out his opponents quickly and he looks as if he is going places . . . Shkor has been packing on weight, and in two years he will easily weigh 220 pounds . . . At that notch he will be a heavyweight threat.

Bill Posedel, who beat the Pirates on the holiday, was on the mound and Ray Berres behind the bat. Norton Cooper and Don Padgett were the Cards' battery.

Finney Continues To Set A.L. Pace

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—The National League keeps furnishing most of the fun in the hitting races of baseball's big show.

The senior circuit swapped leaders again this week with big Hank Danning of the New York Giants regaining the saddle with a percentage of .362. This is 23 points better than he boasted last Saturday.

Merrill May of the Phillies, who led the hitters for one week, detoured into sixth place and a new figure skyrocketed. This latest inaugrent is Bill Nicholson of the Chicago Cubs, who has .338 good for second honors.

In the American League Lou Finney of the Boston Red Sox continued to show the way and bolstered his percentage to a .363 spot yesterday by hitting four for four.

Loosen Up, Boys

CAMBRIDGE, Md., June 22 (AP)—A prospective entry in the Cambridge Yacht Club regatta here July 12 and 13 wants to be sure he won't be embarrassed by the trophies in case he wins.

Chairman W. Emmett Andrews said he had received a letter of inquiry from Kansas City, Mo., which said: "I got trophies last year, but they were so small I was ashamed to show them to my friends."

Dodgers Have 26 Men; May Release Hamlin

BROOKLYN, June 22 (AP)—On the baseball field they're sane enough to be leading the National League, but the Brooklyn Dodgers haven't got over their daffy ways.

They still were out of communication today with their No. 1 pitcher, Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin, and possibly to tantalize him they announced they had claimed Pitcher Lou Fette of the Boston Bees on waiver.

Fette hasn't won a game this year and has lost five, so he's a far whoop from Hamlin, who has won five and lost three.

But the acquisition of Fette brought the club one over the player limit of 25, and they will have to drop somebody before Fette dons a uniform. It could be Hamlin, a 20-game winner last year.

MacPhail criticized Hamlin for throwing one of his well-known home run balls in Tuesday's game with the St. Louis Cardinals, and Wednesday night Hamlin did not show up for the ball game.

Secretary John McDonald said Hamlin had not communicated with the club but that he was still in the city as far as the club knew.

SOX ASK BAGBY, FATE TO HALT SLUMP

Weatherly Sox Spoiler

By JOE CASHMAN

CLEVELAND, O., June 22.—Jim Bagby, whose father won 30 games to help the Indians win their first and only American League pennant 20 years ago, was selected to pitch our slumping Red Sox back within hailing distance of the now pace-setting Redskins in the second game of the current series this p. m.

"Junior" hasn't started a tilt on this hectic western trip, which has seen the Fenway favorites drop their five most recent encounters after winning four in a row in Chicago.

If he could succeed where so many of his mound mates have failed in the past four afternoons in refraining from throwing costly home run balls, he might well best Chief Mel Harder and steer the crumbling Croninmen back to victory trail.

However, if the opener of the Cleveland engagement can be taken as a criterion, the Back Bay boys would require more than Bagby could possibly furnish them to emerge from the doldrums.

They needed smiles where all they got was frowns from the fickle fates which guide baseball destinies as, back of Jack Wilson, they were scalped 7 to 4 by Ossie Vitt's "Happy Family" in the Friday fray.

Our heroes were outplayed in each of their four defeats in St. Louis. They weren't here. But they sure were outlucked.

They fought like demons to snap their losing streak. One break in their favor and they'd have romped home in front against "Lefty" Milner. They couldn't get it. On the contrary, they set a record for getting bad breaks.

We've seen a lot of ball games in our day, but never one that afforded the losers more justification for going out and getting blindly intoxicated, which, by the way, none of our heroes did.

They were cretied with two home runs; the first by Teddy Williams, knocking in three runs in the third; the other by Jimmy Foxx, breaking a 3-3 tie in the eighth.

KEPT WEATHERLY BUSY

In between the Kid's ninth and the Captain's 17th round-tripper, they hit at least five more drives which would have been four-masters on any other big league park in the country, but were caught by the fleet Roy Weatherly on the deep center field of the trick layout at League Park.

One of the belts was a 450-footer by Jim Tabor. Another was a 425-

YOUNG, BUT OH, MY!—Second Baseman Joe Orengo of the Cards, youngster who is outhitting most of the veterans, is eyeing something very intently. Maybe it's the National League pennant.

WINNING COMBINATION—Remember the chap on the left, covering acres of right field flawlessly for the Braves? He's Billy Southworth, new Cards manager. Here he listens to Pepper Martin during Beehive practice. Since Southworth took over the club a week back it has shown the winning form expected before the season started.

Keys, Gray 'H' Captains

Shortly after their smashing victories over Yale, members of the Harvard crew and baseball got together and elected new leaders for next year.

Fred A. Keyes, class of 1941 and a resident of Dorchester, was elected captain of the baseball team, and Sherman Gray, No. 6 oarsman, was named to lead the crew.

Keyes, shortstop for the past two years, is 20 years old, stands 6 feet 1 inch and weighs 160 pounds. Gray who hails from Salt Lake City, is 21.

N. L. Clears Cardinal Hurler

NEW YORK, June 22 (INS) — Pitcher Bob Bowman of the St. Louis Cardinals was cleared of the charges that he deliberately "beaned" Outfielder Joe Medwick of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Manager Billy Southworth and President Sam Breadon of the Cards and Larry MacPhail, president of the Dodgers, Ford Frick, National League president, said:

"After careful investigation, the Nat: nal League office finds no proof of the charge brought by the Brooklyn Club."

Dartmouth's Prager Loses Ski Title

SEATTLE, June 22 (AP)—It's a bit out of season, but Bill Redun of the Washington Ski Club learned today he had been recognized officially as the 1940 National Federation International De Ski champion.

The ski club received a communique from Henri Strand of Salt Lake City, president of the Intermountain Ski Ass'n, reversing the decision of last March in favor of Walter Prager of Dartmouth.

Blozis Gets Credit For Outdoor Mark

MINNEAPOLIS, June 2 (INS)—The new American 16-pound shop-put record made indoors by huge Al Blozis of Georgetown University, will be listed as an outdoor record, Major John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner and referee of the 17th annual national collegiate track and field championship, declared today.

Driven indoors by a summer's deluge which left the infield too soft for the field events, Blozis' heave of 56 feet one-half inch was witnessed only by his competitors and the weight judges.

Major Griffith, speaking for the games committee, said the mark would be accepted as an outdoor record inasmuch as it was made on a dirt floor and with regular outdoor equipment.

If listed as an indoors performance, Blozis' tremendous put would stand as a new world record.

The 245-pound, 6 foot 5 inch Georgetown giant's performance had been anticipated since last March, when he broke world indoor records in the 8, 12 and 16-pound shot in Madison Square Garden.

Blozis' new American and national collegiate record is but a foot short of Jack Torrance's world record, and two and a quarter inches better than the former meet record set by Elmer Hackney of Kansas State in 1939.

Almost overshadowing Blozis' performance was the battle between Stanford and Southern California for qualifying honors.

The former qualified eight men, U. S. C. seven, and coaches were generally agreed today that the championship lies between the two schools.

DOUBLE PAYS $18 AT DOWNS

By TOM SHEHAN

SUFFOLK DOWNS, June 22—Eddie Kelley's Praetorian became the second favorite in a row to romp home a winner when he finished three lengths and a half in front of Discourse in the second race here today. And consequently the daily double only paid $18 to those who combined that Cohort gelding with Constitutional, winner of the first race.

Rating him back off the pace and moving up around the turn Frankie Maschek made his move with the winner as the field straightened away into the stretch. Responding to his urging, Praetorian drew away to his handy victory and paid $6.20 as he scored his third victory this year.

Discourse, who paid the good price of $19.40 to place, finished two lengths in front of Traggat. The latter brought $8.20 for show and was a half a length in front of Weston Adams' Pay Back.

Constitutional won the opening number on the program, a mile event for older horses. Elbert Suttle had to hand-ride out the winner through the stretch while standing off the challenge of the old New England favorite, Blackbirder, who turned in his customary race from far back to run over horses at the end.

It was his first win this year for the four-year-old son of Constitution and he had only a head advantage on Blackbirder while stepping the mile in 1:39. Constitutional paid $6.60 to win.

Behind the two leaders the field was strung out with Blackbirder, who paid $4.80 to place, finishing four lengths in front of Grand Day. The latter paid $5.60 to show and had the same margin over Bonnie Buzz who dropped back rapidly at the end.

SENATORS' FARM HAND TOP HITTER

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Jim Vernon, who has been in the thick of the International League's hot scrap for hitting honors all season, finally emerged on top this week.

The young first baseman who was loaned the Jersey City Giants by the Washington Senators boosted his batting average 12 points to .359 during the week. This climb coincided with a sharp skid by Montreal's Don Ross, who had set the pace for two straight weeks.

TIPTON AT .335 CLIP

Ross dropped from .367 to .356 but salvaged second place among the leading hitters as some of the other early season sluggers slipped back also.

Behind Vernon and Ross after Wednesday's games ranged Murray Howell, Baltimore, .349; Tuck Stainback, Montreal, .348; Ed Levy, Newark, .342; Gene Corbett, Baltimore, .337; Eric Tipton, Toronto, .335; Geody Rosen, Syracuse, .331; George Staller, Montreal, .324, and Nick Etten, Baltimore, .322.

Etten remained the leader in runs batted in with 54, but had to give up his home run leadership to team mate Bill Nagel, who has hit 15. The Orioles were in the thick of the struggle for other individual honors, too.

11 SACKS FOR COLLINS

Howell has scored the most runs, 52. Eddie Collins and Lamar Newsome are tied for the most stolen bases with 11 and Corbett is tied with Ross for the most two-base hits, 20.

Stainback has collected the most hits, 87, and is tied with Mike Chartak of Newark and Staller for the most triples, five.

The pitching picture was scrambled during the week after Ralph Birmbeloe of Rochester suffered his second defeat. Harold White of Buffalo has won three without a defeat. Frank Pearce of Jersey City has won seven and lost one and Art Jones of Syracuse has captured five with one setback.

Bridgeport Girls Next for Pets

With both Boston teams, Olympets and Totem Pole, in a deadlock for first place in the New England League, softball continues at the Garden next Thursday evening, June 27. The Olympets face the Bridgeport Girls of Connecticut, while Totem Pole takes on the Langley Girls of Portland, Maine.

The Bridgeport team came to Boston sporting an unblemished record last year, but tasted their first serving of defeat at the hands of the Olympets, 6-5. That was a nip-and-tuck battle, with Mary Pratt dealing gilt-edge ball from her left flipper.

On next Thursday evening the same Miss Pratt will be back on the Garden hill, It will be her first start of the year in a pitching role, although she guarded the center field sector of the Garden two weeks ago, when the Hub club was short-handed because of graduation exercises.

Roman Flag Still Off Form

By Associated Press

They apparently haven't found out yet what's the matter with Roman Flag. Making his 1940 debut as an even money favorite yesterday in the Osmond Handicap at Aqueduct, Roman Flag barely saved third place and never was a serious factor in the race won by L. Brann's Pictor.

Last year the gelding won five of his eight races and purses totaling $29,736, closing the season with a stirring triumph in the Breeders' Futurity. But he failed to come to hand quickly this year and his stable relied on Dit in the early classics.

Favored Satilla's Injury Revealed

By the Associated Press

Horsemen have been wondering ever since the running of the $6000 Georgetown Steeplechase what was the matter with Thomas Hitchcock's Satilla. The horse was a favorite, but came up in last place over the testing Delaware Park course.

It since has been learned that the horse received a nasty injury at the post.

Officials revealed that Satilla was kicked in the right shoulder by another horse while the field was lining up for the rtart.

Joe Roberts has been named trainer of the large string of horses campaigned by Gustave Ring of Washington. The resignation of Lester Bedwell takes effect July 1 and Roberts immediately will step in as head trainer of the string which is at Delaware Park.

Roberts has been a successful conditioner of thoroughbreds for many years and is remembered for training Shangay Lily which won top money in the 1939 New Castle Handicap at Delaware Park.

Little Keeps Golf Post

Lawson Little, National Open Champion, will continue his connection with Bretton Woods, New Hampshire as director of golf for this New England resort, it was announced today by R. Foster Reynolds, of the Bretton Woods Company.

While the playing commitments of a national champion will naturally take Little away from New Hampshire at times this year, he expects to be at Bretton Woods every possible occasion during the open season and will make the Mount Washington Hotel his summer residence. Mrs. Little will reside at The Mount Washington during the season.

To assist him in giving instruction Little has arranged for Mel Smith, veteran Indiana professional golfer, to serve as playing professional at The Mount Washington Hotel this summer. Smith has long been one of America's leading golf instructors and during Lawson's early golfing days was his principal teacher.

Little's playing itinerary has been so arranged so as to provide definitely for his being at Bretton Woods during the playing of the White Mountain Four Ball Invitation Tournament scheduled over the Bretton Woods course August 2, 3 and 4.

SKEETERS SHOOT AT STRATFORD

STRATFORD, N., June 22 (AP)—The great eastern skeet shoot got down to championship business today after a tune-up event that found at least three marksmen so highly tuned they were well-nigh perfect.

George Deyoe of Washington, D. C., won a shoot-off for the Class 1 title in the "World's Fair Special" yesterday after he and two others, Ed Lee of Norwich, N. Y., and Dr. Richard Westermeier of Buffalo, N. Y., each had brought down 100 straight birds.

Deyoe continued at the perfect pace in the shoot-off, smashing 25 targets, while Lee had one miss for 24x25, and Dr. Westermeier four misses for 21x25.

HOLLISTON DEFENDS TITLE

Today's events included the women's and junior championships and .410 and .20-gauge championships for men. Diana Bolling of Old Greenwich is defending the women's title, Clayton Boardman of Augusta, Ga., the junior crown, and Alex Kerr of Beverly Hills, Calif., the .410 gauge.

The team championship, defended by the Hilltop five of Holliston, Mass., will be decided tomorrow when all of the approximately 300 marksmen on hand will be blazing away.

Competition in the lower four classes of the "World's Fair Special" was just as keen as that afforded by the top-notchers in Class 1.

BENOIT WINS SHOOT-OFF

Harry L. Brown of San Antonio, Tex., one of nine tied with scores of 95 in Class 2, won the shoot-off, but had to break 75 straight targets to defeat Arthur Perry of Rochester, N. Y.

Eight were tied with scores of 93 in Class 3, and Mrs. M. L. Smythe of Aurora, O., won the shoot-off, defeating six men and Miss Bolling, the women's champion.

Six marksmen had scores of 90 in Class 4, the shoot-off being won by A. C. Benoit of West Camp, N. Y.

H. W. Cruickshank, of Rochester, one of four tied at 85 in Class 5, won the shoot-off in that division.

47 Racing Days Granted Santa

LOS ANGELES, June 22—The new California horse racing board today granted a 47-day winter turf meeting for Santa Anita Park and approved the richest stake program in the history of the track. The meeting will open Dec. 28 and close March 8.

Santa Anita goes back on the five-day instead of the four-day week it operated under during its 41-day meeting last winter.

The Handicap will be run March 1, the Derby Feb. 12, and the $50,000 San Juan Capistrano on closing day.

Indians Invincible Despite Vitt Affair

Everybody in baseball expected the Tribe would come apart after the boys had their fuss with Manager Ossie Vitt, but they are still on the American League warpath today with six consecutive scalpings to their credit, including a 7-4 prize from the Boston Red Sox in the first game of their crucial series.

This was the Indians' eighth triumph in nine games since the big blowup, and that kind of a record can't be called cracking.

The Indians won under pressure from the Red Sox. The ockers slugged Lefty Al Milnar for 10 hits, one of them a home run in the third inning by Ted Williams with two on and another, Jimmie Foxx's 17th home run in the eighth.

HUDSON'S MASTERPIECE

But Cleveland, held to eight hits by Jack Wilson, kept coming and in the last of the eighth Roy (Beau) Bell hit a three-run homer that proved the margin of victory.

One of the season's starriest individual shows was a one-hit pitching performance by young Sid Hudson of the Washington Senators last night at St Louis, where he ended the Browns' six-game winning string with a 1-0 shutout.

The 24-year-old righthander, plucked from the Class D Florida State League last winter, had won only three games and lost nine until last night. But Manager Bucky Harris had faith in him and Hudson more than justified it. The only safety he allowed was a double by Rip Radcliff.

The world champion New York Yankees stopped their five-game skid to wallop the Detroit Tigers 12-7. The Tigers, who muffed a chance to take the American League lead Thursday, could have advanced into second place yesterday.

But four pitchers could not silence the pentup Bronx bombers. Charley Keller hit a home run and three singles and Red Rolfe hit a double and four singles.

The Philadelphia Athletics worked out on the Chicago White Sox even more efficiently, 12-1. Lee Ross pitched a four-hitter at the Sox, and Bob Johnson led an 11-hit attack with his 12th and 13th home runs.

In the National League the Brooklyn Dodgers strengthened their hold on first place by stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-8, while the New York Giants upended the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3, to take second place.

The Brooklyn game was a slugging session with 26 hits and seven pitchers out of which Fred Fitzsimmons emerged with his sixth victory against one defeat.,

Becomly, Ballarosa, Point for Demoiselle

The two-year-old fillies, Becomly, owned by Hazel M. Babylon, and Ballarosa, Jouett Shouse's colorbearer, are being conditioned at Delaware for the Demoiselle Stakes to be renewed July 4 at Empire City. Becomly established herself as a top flight juvenile when she won Havre De Grace's rich Aberdeen Stakes last April.

Schooling Races At Wonderland End Tonight

Wonderland winds up the long series of schooling races for greyhounds at the beach track tonight. When the last event is run off all of the more than 300 canine speedsters, representing leading owners of America, will have been officially schooled three times.

These performances will appear on the opening night's program Monday.

Racing Secretary Bill Fineran believes that all of the entries are in top condition and are ready to give their best in their first official starts.

Monday night's program will be featured by the Wonderland Inaugural which will bring to post eight celebrated long distance stars. While the entries for Inaugural Night are not yet available there is every likelihood that the great champion Rural Rube will make his first start of the season against a fast field of noted racing stars.

TARZAN FAVORED IN W. ROXBURY

A baker's dozen of those lithe limbed gentry, the merry marathoners headed by the inimitable Ellison "Tarzan" Brown, the bounding brownskin from Westerly, R. I., Leslie Pawson, a politician who runs for his votes, and Johnny Kelley, the people's choice from Arlington, will have attempted and undoubtedly accomplished something gruelling by sunset this evening—completion of a pair of 10-mile races within the space of 24 hours.

After competing in the Haverhill Tercentenary run last evening, the boys go at it again early this evening for the usual buffet trophies in the Holy Name Church's annual romp through the streets of Roslindale, Jamaica Plain and West Roxbury.

LOST ONLY IN B. A. A.

On paper this afternoon the favorite will have to be the "Terrible Tarz" Brown, winner of the time prize in last year's Holy Name race in the record time of 52 minutes, 14 seconds, has been cleaning up everything in a "road racing" way ever since he went off the mark favorite in the famous B. A. A. and then failed to show a thing sensational.

Since that time "Tarzan" has been the big shot of the Edwards, the Braintree and the Bunker Hill runs and has copped top honors in the Salisbury Beach Marathon (in which he established a new record), the New England 20 and the national 15 and 20 kilometers championship events.

The "Tarz" definitely is hot at the present time, and, though with Kelley and Pawson he'll have to run from scratch tonight, residents of West Roxbury can put it down right now that they'll be seeing the Narragansett step up for his share of trophies when the time comes to award prizes early this evening.

TOP FIELD ENTERED

As is usually the case, Brown will undoubtedly receive the major part of his competition from Kelley, Pawson, Andrew "Hawk" Zamparilla, the Medford constable, and St. Leonard's representative, Bob Campbell, winner of the Braintree tercentary, Jim McCafferty, Woburn lad, who won the race last year; Frank Ryder, son of Boston College's Jack, who has been running superlatively during the past couple of weeks; Johnny Semple, the B. A. A. favorite, and the top representatives of the Norfolk House, Fred McGlone, Francis Darragh and Linden Dempster.

CARPENTER WINS RACE AT READING

Ted Carpenter of Melrose, winner of the recent Bunker Hill 10-mile race, captured the Middlesex County District No. 5 American Legion third annual three-mile road race in North Reading this afternoon.

Carpenter's winning time was 18 minutes and 57 seconds, 15 seconds better than Farrell's.

A field of 15 starters faced the starter's gun, and all finished.

foot liner by Jack Wilson after he had hit a double of that length. Still another was a Williams' wallop longer than his mighty homer.

Then there was the ironic climax when the Indians walked off with the verdict in the eighth on Beau Bell's a three-run homer which would have been a routine fly catch for Lou Finney at Fenway Park.

John Reed Wins Junior Skeet

STRATFORD, Ct., June 22 (AP)—John Reed, 16-year-old scattergun expert from Rochester, N. Y., broke 49 out of 50 targets today to win the junior title as the Great Eastern skeet shoot got down to championship business.

Baylor Van Meter, 14, of Lexington, Ky., and F. L. Brown, 15, of San Antonio, Tex., tied for second place with 48 targets each.

A tune-up event yesterday found at least three marksmen so highly tuned they were well-nigh perfect.

Constitutional went to the front at once, opened up a commanding lead on the back stretch, was given a breather rounding the home turn, and hard urged the last sixteenth to drive off the bid of Blackbirder. The latter, in hand on the inside going the first quarter, moved up fast on the outside going down the back stretch, made a bold bid in the late stages but just failed. Grand Day was pinched back going around the first turn, was in tight quarters on the inside at the half way marker and was closing strong when clear in the stretch. Bonnie Buzz, up with the pace most of the trip, hung on well at the close. Metaurus, away slowly, moved up with a rush on the outside going down the back stretch and hung on well at the end. Cordate had good early speed, then weakened. Maple Margaret never threatened.

Praetorian was held in restraint the quarter mile, responded when called upon and drew out on his field all through the stretch winning with ease. Discourse, outrun the early stages, saved ground on the rail all the way, slipped in between horses rounding the turn for home and held the rush of Traggart, a forward factor right from the start, made a bold bid at the eighth pole but tired in the closing stages. Pay Rack broke well, was taken back, could not better his position on the far side, but closed well at the end. Special Racket was sent to the front a time or two for about a half mile then weakened thereafter. Fres Child had good early speed then tired.

Blue Pair, in hand the first quarter, saved ground on the inside round the turn for home, swung to the outside entering the stretch and drew out steadily on his field from the eighth pole to the wire. He was urged on right to the end. Tidy Whisk could not get going in the early stages, saved ground on the rail heading for home and closed fast on the rail the last sixteenth to hold the rest of the field safe. Oh Oh, outrun the first quarter, went a trifle wide entering the stretch and finished fast on the outside of his field. Double Call was sent to the front at once, enjoyed a length lead the first quarter, but tired in the last sixteenth. Marcksire broke tardily, rushed up. Blue Twink showed good speed for about a half then weakened.

WILSON, KEATS, M'AULEY PICK FIRST THREE

With three races completed at Suffolk Downs today and three over at Aqueduct, New York, the Green Race Special, Boston Evening American's latest smash hit, was batting for a cool 1.000, with Dave Wilson, premier handicapper, boasting three straight, including the daily double, Bill McAuley doing likewise and the inimitable Fred Keats stepping right along with a perfect score sheet at Aqueduct.

Constitutional won the first race at Suffolk by a head, returning $6.60 straight. Praetorian simply cake-walked in the second stanza, winning by 3 and one-half lengths for a $6.20 return in the mutuels.

In the third, Blue Pair, Wilson's best bet, jogged along to a 2 and one-half length score, finishing but one-fifth of a second off the track record. Blue Pan paid off $2.80 on the nose.

Keats, who a few days back swept the card at Aqueduct, was going great guns today with these winners: Fishwife, first, $3.70; Moonfolly, second, $3.70, and Philomen, third, $4.70.
